B.C. Lumber Gains Favor for British Railroad Purposes

Hon. F.-P. Burden Tells of Repeat Orders for 200,000 Douglas Fir Ties From This Province—Endorses Trade Mission

SUCCESSFUL demonstration of the fact that Douglas fir ties will stand up to the requirements of the chief railway systems in Great Britain has opened a tremendous market for British Columbia lumber, stated Hon. F. P. Burden, Minister of Lands, on his return to the city yesterday from an extended trip to European points. Mr. Burden formed part of the Canadian delegation of sixteen members that attended the World Power Congress at Berlin, from June 16 to 26.

On his way home the minister made personal contact with officials of the British Forest Product Laboratories and the purchasing departments of the large British railroads. One railway system, placing a repeat order for British Columbia fir ties after successful preceding tests carried out at London, has contracted for the delivery of 200,000 ties immediately, and this will be followed by more extensive orders.

Mr. Burden said he found a growing preference for British Columbia soft woods, largely as a result of the excellent work being done by the Forest Product Laboratories and also the energetic measures taken by British Columbia representatives in England. Recent creosoting tests with Douglas fir ties have demonstrated the superiority of the British Columbia product, and extensive buying by the railroads of Britain is expected to follow.

FAVORS TRADE MISSION

While in London Mr. Burden heard much favorable comment on the suggestion that a British Columbia lumber trades delegation visit the United Kingdom to inform the industry here of the actual requirements of the market, the quality of lumber required and details as to cut and measurements.

British Columbia producers, he said, could profit by improving methods of milling and in the turning out of specified dimensions required in the United Kingdom market.

BODIES BEING REMOVED FROM BLAKEBURN PIT

Remains of Thirteen Miners Recovered After Heroic Work by Rescue Gangs

MINISTER OF MINES PRAISES RESCUERS

(Special to The Colonist)

COALMONT, B.C., Aug. 19. — Thirteen bodies have been removed from the ill-fated Blakeburn mine where last Wednesday an explosion claimed forty-five lives. It was with the greatest difficulty that the dead were removed, having to be carried on improvised stretchers for a distance of nearly half a mile, mostly over the debris of broken walls and roof of the main tunnel.

Only one of the thirteen died from the force of the explosion, it was reported, the others having been victims of after-damp, or carbon monoxide poisoning. The remains were identified as those of: James Halstead, John Millidoh, John Nesbitt, Cornelius Hupton, Mike Lubanko, Frank Pilot, William Sims, Frank Gallon, Charles H. Smith, Joseph Konopka, Nicholas Sheryk, Sekiji Lubardo and Frank Jerome.

Three bodies were previously removed from the workings, leaving twenty-nine still in the colliery.

CARRIED BROTHER

A particularly pathetic incident featured the removal of the dead Jimmy Sims, a youth, was one of the most eager of the rescue workers since the explosion. His brother Billy, a chute tucker, and only a boy, being the youngest person in the mine, was among the missing. Jimmy went in with the rescue workers this morning to bring out the dead crushed last night. It fell to his lot to bear the remains of his brother from the mine.

With the exception of Charles Smith none of the bodies shows that they had suffered injury from the force of the explosion. Smith was a rope rider and it is thought that he was alone at the time on which he was riding. His head was injured.

Officials of the company tonight stated that it may be several months before a complete survey of the mine can be made and consequently it may be some days at least before all the missing bodies are recovered. The work of searching for the remains of the missing

RANSOM PRICE CUT DOWN TO $10,000 NOW

Chinese State New Basis for Two British Women Missionaries' Release

RIVAL CIVIL WARFARE CAMPS CLAIM VICTORY

(Associated Press)

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The ransom demanded by Chinese bandits for the release of two British women missionaries, first placed at $100,000 and then at $50,000, today was reduced to $10,000, according to word received by the London office of the Church's Missionary Society for China.

The society on August 6 authorized its representative at Foochow to pay that sum for the release of Edith Nettleton and Eleanor J. Hartman, held prisoners in Fukian Province, if the British authorities in China considered the payment necessary to free them.

The bandits are reported to have cut off one of Miss Nettleton's fingers and sent it along with their demand for ransom.

Urgent representation to the Nanking Government by Great Britain resulted from the alleged outrage.

Violent Alberta Storms Take Toll of Four Lives

Three Killed When Barn Crumbles Under Shock of Lightning Bolt

CALGARY, Aug. 19.—Four persons were struck dead today when electric storms streaked thunder, rain and lightning across Eastern Alberta. When a barn in the sand dune area of Hanna crumbled under the shock of a lightning bolt, three were killed and burned in the resulting fire. A girl was killed by lightning near Youngstown, only fifty miles east of Hanna.

The victims are:

John Engle, sixty; Sam Engle, his son, sixteen; Alex Dyer, thirty-five, and Violet Witt, twenty-two.

Miss Witt, who resided on a farm five miles northwest of Youngstown, was hurrying to shelter as she was knocked down by the lightning bolt. The two Engle men and Dyer were cowering in a barn as a bolt of lightning shattered the building, stunned them, and left them prey to flames, unless the fire and fury of the lightning should reveal the

The rain accompanying the lightning storm terminated a dry spell which had extended for three weeks in some parts. Harvesting will be resumed within a few days, it is stated.

APPROVAL OF HALIBUT PACT IS EXPECTED

Little Fear of Competition From Orient Fleets Off Pacific Coast

TREATY NOW BEFORE UPPER HOUSE OF U.S.

Closed season regulations under the existing halibut convention in Pacific waters may prove of serious detriment to Canadian and American fishermen, if the new halibut treaty, now before the United States Senate for approval, is ratified without delay, it was stated yesterday by Arthur F. Babcock, chairman of the halibut commission.

Mr. Babcock referred to a dispatch from Ketchikan, quoting Captain Jacob Engdal, president of the Fishing Vessel Owners' Association, which stated there was grave danger that the convention would become now in effect would inure to the benefit of foreign fishermen at the expense of Canadian and American fishing fleets. There was little likelihood of competition from Japanese vessels, said Mr. Babcock, "as Japanese vessel is said to have operated in Bering Sea the past Summer, and it is well known that American fishermen that Japanese competition on Alaskan spawning grounds during the closed season may prove serious.

"As long as the existing halibut treaty is in force the rigidly fixed closed season provided therein will

Search Mt. Robson for Lone Climber

THE photograph shows a party of searchers who are looking for Newman D. Waffl, New Jersey climber, who recently set out on an attempt to scale Mount Robson, B.C., alone. When he failed to return to the base after two days, search parties were organized. Four days ago Alpinists found bits of clothing on a rocky precipice, and hope has been abandoned of finding the veteran mountain climber alive.

MILLIONAIRE PUBLISHER IS LOST AT SEA

Dirigible, Planes and Boats Scour Coast for Van Lear Black

DISAPPEARED FROM HIS YACHT OFF NEW JERSEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The navy dirigible Los Angeles joined the coast guard craft and seaplanes today in an intensive search for Van Lear Black, millionaire Baltimore publisher and aviation enthusiast, who disappeared out of sight from his yacht off the New Jersey Coast.

The huge dirigible was ordered by navy officials in Washington to proceed to a point about twelve miles south of Scotland Lighthouse at the entrance to New York Harbor, where Black is believed to have fallen from his vessel, the Savoy.

BOATS SCOUR COAST

Four seventy-five-foot coast guard boats from the coast guard station at Station Island were dispatched to the same spot. Two coast guard boats from the Sandy Hook Station scoured the coast from Sandy Hook to Shields Park, but reported no trace of the publisher. Four seaplanes from the Curtis Flying Field Service took off late today to scan the waters of the harbor near the place he is believed to have gone down.

Postmen Protest Against Letters To 'Householder'

CALGARY, Aug. 19.—Householder mail deliveries came under fire at the convention of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers here Tuesday and the delegates decided to disapprove of such deliveries altogether.

Householder mail is a system of advertising by which circulars addressed only to "householder" are given to postmen to deliver from house to house on their routes. The convention went on record as favoring deliveries of such matter only when complete addresses, including name, street and number, were affixed.

American magazines received particular attention. The practice of sending these magazines into Canada by freight, and then paying postage in Canada for delivery, was censured and a resolution was passed requesting that they be charged postal rates from office of origin. It was also suggested that postage be sufficient to prevent such magazines being sold cheaper in Canada than in the United States.

ADVOCATES CARE OF SICK BY GOVERNMENT

Dr. H. E. Young Tells Hospitals Conventions Opinion Founded on Expense Being Incurred

VANCOUVER, Aug. 19.—Expressing the conviction that the care of the sick ought to be undertaken by the State of the Government, Dr. H. E. Young, provincial health officer, addressed the hospital convention here this afternoon.

That was his belief, he said, founded on the expense that the Government was incurring, which he put at $22,594,380 during the past ten years. That, he explained, was in addition to what the municipalities paid.

The speaker urged that the best way of dealing with the problem was through prevention. It was a matter of efficient, he declared, that the sixty-seven per cent. prevention of disease was a mere bagatelle, and 20 per cent of disease could be prevented, he said.

PARIS, Aug. 16.—Andre Riviere, one of the noted French poets of the last generation, died here today at the age of fifty-eight.

Men Feared Trapped by Fire, Escape

NELSON, Aug. 19.—Three men who were missing last night and believed trapped by a forest fire on the mountainside on the south side of the Kootenay River, opposite Thrums, turned up today, having made their escape by the summit, where were originally held for the safety of forty men. Two men are in hospital suffering from injuries sustained in fighting the fire. Three horses were killed and three others are missing.

Camps 7, 3 and 4 were totally destroyed, together with more than three miles of flume, and 20,000 acres of timber burned over on the limits of Schacter and Hitchcock.

Green timber and rain are checking the fire, on which more than two hundred men are working.

DROUGHT RELIEF BODY IS NAMED

President Hoover's Board to Function With State and County Agencies

WATCH FEED SHIPMENTS

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 19.—A national drought relief committee, under the chairmanship of Secretary Hyde, was appointed by President Hoover today and will begin to function immediately, in conjunction with state and county agencies in more than 300 counties.

Secretary Hyde will supervise the relief work from his office in the Department of Agriculture. He will have as assistants on the committee Chairman Legge, Federal Farm Board; Chairman Bester, Federal Farm Loan Board; Governor Cunningham, Federal Reserve Board; Chairman Payne, American Red Cross; Chairman Ashton, American Railway Association; Oliphant, Mills, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, and Henry M. Robinson, president of the First National Bank, Los Angeles.

County agents have been instructed by Secretary Hyde to watch feed shipments closely to prevent unwarranted price increases.

In announcing the committee, President Hoover said rains in the last few days had "stemmed the spread of the drought and greatly improved the situation outside the society affected area."

"The President emphasized that from a relief standpoint the "burden of the problem in the acute area will show very much more vividly over the Winter than at the present moment."

BABIES SWITCHED AGAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The Bamberger-Watkins babies were switched again today. The parents agreed to exchange the infants given them at Evanston Hospital, where they were born and where their identity labels were mixed.

Raging Winds Undo Good Work of Fire Fighters

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Aug. 19.—Raging winds have undone the work of the fire fighters in Northern Saskatchewan, according to radio reports received today. Forty men were downcast at the news that a fierce gale raging for yesterday failed to touch more than scattered patches of fire-burned areas. These serious outbreaks are burning, as well as a dozen minor blazes.

The most extensive blaze is thirty miles east of Lac la Ronge, at Mirror Lake, where between five and six hundred acres of mature jack pine and poplar raise their blackened forms above the scene of desolation. An effort is being made by the score of hard fire fighters to stem the onward sweep of the hungry flames, except to protect areas in which timber is of better quality.

The other major outbreaks, being battled by 175 additional men to the regular forces service, are in the far north Churchill River country. The first, at Nee Lake, thirty miles north of Pelican Narrows, has ravaged approximately forty-two square miles of pulpwood stands, and the second, at Frog Portage, fifty miles north of Pelican Narrows, consists of five smaller fires flaring in a small pulpwood area.

Detailed information was available tonight from Ernest Gibson, forestry inspector, on his return from a motor trip to the R.C.A.F. forestry patrol air base at Ladder Lake. Conditions are very bad, he declared. High winds have undone practically all the good work the army of fighters accomplished. The only observing aspect of today's news was a radio message from J. A. Wood, superintendent of Prince Albert National Park, that the rains smothered the flames of the Lake Lavallee blaze and the threat on park timber areas has thus been removed.

OUTCOME OF PEACE OFFER IS AWAITED

Gandhi to Halt Indian Campaign if Gov't Works for Dominion Status

PARDON FOR POLITICAL PRISONERS IS SOUGHT

Labor Administration May Express Decision Within Thirty-Six Hours

(Associated Press)

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Political Britain speculated tonight as to the probable outcome of a peace offer reported to have been made by the Government by Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the Nationalist civil disobedience movement in India.

Gandhi is said to have offered to call off his campaign if the Labor Government will grant Dominion status to India. Lord Irwin, will pledge to work for Dominion status at the forthcoming round table conference, and grant amnesty to political prisoners.

LETTER TO LORD IRWIN

The Nationalist chief has made a letter to the Viceroy, following conferences last week with four fellow-prisoners, Pandit Motilal Nehru, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, Sarojini Naidu and Vallabha Patel, and two emissaries of peace, Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and M. Jayakar. The letter was due to be delivered to Lord Irwin today, so the purported contents evidently came from a leak on the part of some participants.

Observers feel some important Government view will be revealed within thirty-six hours, possibly publication of the Gandhi letter with assent or refusal to pledge efforts toward dominion status at the round table.

TO SPEED THE WORK

Since Lord Irwin, speaking for the Labor Government, has stated repeatedly that such status is the ultimate goal of India, it is felt that Gandhi is seeking to speed the work toward that end, as he has known it along of the Viceroy's attitude.

The Gandhi view of reports are correct regarding the contents of his letter, represents a considerable change in attitude. Without he has held out for complete independence as the price of ending the non-co-operation movement. Now, it is said, he realizes that the MacDonald Government cannot grant dominion status because of opposition strength, but can furnish a potent weapon in fighting for it.

With judging nearly completed at a late hour last night the red awards posted in the majority of the sections, officials of the British Columbia Agricultural Association prepared for a big day today, glistening, at the Willows. Today is the regular midweek half holiday and many places of business will be closed in the regular half-holiday are shutting up shop for their employees to attend the exhibition.

The special feature for today will take place at 3 o'clock, the stock parade. In no other exhibition in this history of the island has there been such a collection of stock as contained in the exhibits this year. Judges acclaim the showing one of the best ever on view in British Columbia and the parade of these magnificent animals should impress the public and give an example of the possibilities of British Columbia as a stock-raising section of the Dominion. Many of the animals in the parade will carry their ribbon awards.

Lieutenant-Governor R. Randolph Bruce and party will attend the fair this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

SUSPENSION OF OFFICIAL ASKED

Vancouver School Trustee Makes Allegations Against Col. Basil G. Wolfe-Merton

ACTION IS DEFERRED

VANCOUVER, Aug. 19.—Demand for the immediate suspension of Col. G. Wolfe-Merton as business manager and secretary of the Vancouver School Board, was made at a special meeting of the board tonight.

Trustee C. M. Woodworth, fortified with a letter from W. L. Woodford, internal civic auditor, made allegations against the fitness of Colonel Wolfe-Merton to hold the position and moved for his suspension.

Following a bitter debate and failing to secure a seconder to his motion, Mr. Woodworth said prepared that Colonel Wolfe-Merton be suspended, pending investigation of the allegations.

The specific charges made by Trustee Woodworth against Colonel Wolfe-Merton arouse from alleged character evidence as to his belief in the honesty of Co-Operation Group in attitude. Without he has held out for complete independence as the price of ending the non-co-operation movement. Now, it is said, he realizes that the MacDonald Government cannot grant dominion status because of opposition strength, but can furnish a potent weapon in fighting for it.

FIRE SWEEPS SOOKE LAKE MILL CAMP

One Man Injured When Blaze Destroys Thirty Buildings at Kapoor

DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT MORE THAN $250,000

Women and Children Spend Night in Open—Homes Wiped Out

Forest fire at the south end of Sooke Lake on Tuesday caused damage estimated at more than $250,000 when it wiped out thirty buildings and 7,000,000 feet of lumber at Kapoor, superintendent of the Kapoor Lumber Company, E. Stephens, an employee of the company, was severely burned about his face and hands when struck by a falling timber, and was brought to the Jubilee Hospital here for treatment. Women and children forced from their homes, spent the night on the lake shore.

Starting in slashings near the Canadian National Railways track shortly after noon, the fire spread with amazing rapidity. Hardly had the men in the vicinity been organized when the outlying buildings began to burst into flames. One after another the homes and bunkhouses took fire and blaze in the lumber piles added to the difficulty of removing small valuables from the dwellings.

UNDER CONTROL

When it was seen that the residences could not be saved, all efforts were concentrated on protecting the mill. A six hour battle ensued, the 180 men on the scene had the fire under control and it was not thought the plant was endangered.

W. J. BAIRD IS THIRD MAN ON LIQUOR BOARD

New Control Body Assumes Duties Under H. B. Thomson's Chairmanship

BOARD TO HAVE FULL CONTROL OF POLICIES

W. J. Baird, a well known barrister of Vancouver and chairman of the Greater Vancouver School Board, was appointed as a member of the new Liquor Control Board yesterday, following a meeting of the executive council. The new board is placed in entire control of the administration of the province's liquor business and will get down to work right away.

H. B. Thomson, chairman, and W. F. Kennedy Kennedy, members of the board whose appointments had been previously announced.

In confirming the appointment of Mr. Baird to complete the membership of the board, Hon. W. H. Pooley, K.C., acting premier and Attorney-General of the province, said the Government's action gives the new board into operation at once, effective as from yesterday.

The board had been summoned into power with those strong members constituting the penal, and would be expected to attend to everything in connection with the administration of liquor matters in the province. It was intimated. Mr. Baird, continued Acting-Premier Pooley, was a well known barrister of Vancouver, and his services would be of great value to the board. He is a graduate of McGill University, and has been a resident of British Columbia for the past twenty years, during which time he has been prominently identified with public affairs in Vancouver for the past twenty years, and particularly in municipal and educational work. BIG HOSPITALS PARLEY OPENS AT VANCOUVER

First International Convention Includes Representatives From Coast States

FIRE MARSHAL TELLS OF CLEVELAND TRAGEDY

VANCOUVER, Aug. 19.—Between two hundred and fifty and three hundred delegates from hospital associations of British Columbia and the Pacific Coast states south as far as California, assembled for a three-day convention here today. This is the first time that a joint meeting has ever been held by such organizations of the two countries.

The bodies represented are British Columbia Hospitals' Association, the Western Hospital Association and the Northwest Hospital Association. At the opening session the delegates were welcomed by Mayor W. H. Malkin and George A. Walkem, M.P.P., who represented Premier S. F. Tolmie.

Reviewing the work of the past year, Mr. McVety referred to several important subjects that had received attention. Considerable economy had been effected, he pointed out, in the purchase of alcohol for rubbing purposes in hospitals in British Columbia. The committee aimed at a further reduction, it was stated, and intended to discuss the matter with the new Liquor Control Board as soon as possible after it was constituted.

An extract from the report of J. A. Thomas, provincial fire marshal, as to his investigations into the tragedy that occurred in a clinic at Cleveland, Ohio, in regard to the use and storage of nitro-cellulose film, was interpreted.

TO BE PROHIBITED SOON

This stated:

"I am glad to report that today over 95 per cent of our hospitals and clinics are using the acetate safety film, and that in the very near future the use of the nitro-cellulose film for X-ray purposes will be entirely prohibited in this province."

G. W. Olsen, first vice-president, Western Hospital Association, in the course of his remarks, said he preferred the British Columbia system of hospital financing to that in vogue in California, where the state collected taxes from hospitals and gave no financial aid, except to institutions dealing exclusively with indigent patients.

Yellow Haver and pursued insurgent armies through Shantung Province to the Gobi Desert, which, he expected, the Northerners driven out of Shantung would flee, instead of attempt to make a stand after days of flight.

Nationalists also reported their forces had recaptured Lanfeng, Northern Honan Province. Reports, they said, tore up the Hai-chow-Tientsin railroad west of the city to delay pursuit.

CONFLICTS REPORTS

Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang, insurgent commander, instructed Government reports of victory, said that Saturday night, he killed 3,000 Nationalists. Fighting their way through a mass formed by ten days of torrential rain, Feng said his men attacked with rifles and swords, forcing Government lines to give way.

President Chiang Kai Shek, Feng asserted, accompanied his staff officers by taking an airplane from his army headquarters at Kaifeng.

In sharp fighting near Mamutai, Saturday and Sunday, Feng continued, his men forced the Nationalists to withdraw, leaving 400 bodies floating in flooded canals.

Feng accused Nationalist aviators of killing 7,000 noncombatants at Changchow by dropping many bombs on the walled-in city. The bombs, he asserted, contained poison gas.

Despite the Government's claims of victories, foreigners in Shanghai consider the Nationalists' position much weakened by three months of fighting against rebels in Honan and Shantung and by the depredations of Communists in several provinces of the Yangtze Valley.

Because of disturbed conditions and lack of confidence in the Government's ability to afford protection, trade has suffered greatly.

FIRE SWEEPS SOOKE LAKE MILL CAMP

unless there was a change or increase in the velocity of the wind.

Few of the families rendered homeless saved anything from their houses, and many lost some of their most valued possessions. Women and children were placed in motor trucks with bedding and clothing that could be saved, and were taken to the shores of Sooke Lake, where they would have the added protection of the water in event of the fire continuing out of control.

Last night, while the men under Fire Ranger W. N. Campbell and Assistant Ranger J. Dunn continued their fight with the fire, the women and children of the community had attempted to sleep on the lake shore. More permanent quarters will be provided today when the situation is less critical.

Early in the evening it was feared that the mill could not be saved in spite of the strenuous efforts of the 150 employees to save their means of livelihood, and the crew of ten that arrived on the scene earlier with Mr. Dunn. Later in the night Mr. Campbell arrived with additional reinforcements sufficient to get the blaze which surrounded the big plant under control.

Frank M. Preston, city engineer and water commissioner, was also at the scene lending all possible assistance and minifying the situation from the city's watershed interests.

The glare of the fire was visible in Victoria, and The Colonist office received many calls from persons wishing to account for the smoke and glare.

Nicholls, proprietor of the Royal Theatre, and Hector Angelotti, owner of the Colonial Theatre. The two owners were charged, under the Provincial Motion Pictures Act, with operating theatres without having first obtained a license.

Capt. W. O. Bowering, city fire warden, and Provincial Fire Marshal J. A. Thomas testified that they had delivered to both men documents from Motion Picture Censor Joseph Walters, giving notice of suspension of their theatre licences.

After hearing evidence, the court received arguments by defence counsel, D. N. Hossie, that the charge was incorrectly laid, as it proved that the secured loan not first obtained under the Evidence disclosed, he argued, that both had paid $200 to the Government for licences.

Mr. Hossie and Prosecutor Gordon Scott engaged in argument on the former's submission that to keep a theatre open after suspension or cancellation of licence does not constitute a violation of the act, inasmuch as there is no penalty provided for this situation in the Motion Picture Act.

Magistrate McQuem will give his decision on these arguments Wednesday afternoon.

SUSPENSION OF OFFICIAL ASKED

treasurer of the officers' mess of a city regiment, was dismissed for cause "unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

Specifically Trustee Woodworth charged that Colonel Wolfe-Merton, then officer commanding the regiment in question, knew of Wilson's dismissal and its reason and yet retained him as a trusted servant of the school board.

The dismissal of Wilson from his regiment occurred slightly more than two years ago, the letter stated, and Trustee Woodworth charged, reading from transcript of evidence at Wilson's trial, that Colonel Wolfe-Merton testified to his full belief in Wilson's integrity.

Trustee Annie Jamieson, acting chairman of the board, relinquished her place to Trustee C. E. Campbell in order to accuse Trustee Woodworth of taking a "field night to say unpleasant things."

"When we discussed Mr. Cockbourne's case we met in camera, and as a citizen I resent that without notice we are asked to take an rush a motion," she declared. "We are thoroughly remiss in discussing this thing now."

Trustee Carpenter then moved the matter be laid over until Friday at 10 p.m. and Mr. Woodworth was requested to appear before the board to substantiate the allegations made by Trustee Woodworth. This motion was carried and it was also explained that Colonel Wolfe-Merton will be heard on his own behalf.

OVERTURES FOR CONCLUSION OF WARFARE MADE

Royal Air Force Suspends Bombing Operations in Kurram Area in India

AFGHAN TRIBESMEN ASKING SETTLEMENT

PESHAWAR, India, Aug. 19.—Operations by the Royal Air Force in the Kurram area were suspended today when the Afghan tribesmen, made definite overtures for cessation of hostilities.

While this was taking place the Afghan tribesmen were massing forces on Paiwar Kotel, with the prospect of a large engagement in that quarter.

In the neighborhood of Usar and Bargawlam, the British scouting parties were fired upon today. Military pickets in Upper Kurram also were subjected to fire of the tribesmen.

The Government positions at Kurram were said to be adequately defended by village militia. Irritation where spirits was decreased somewhat.

No military or air operations occurred in the vicinity of Peshawar yesterday. With the complete escaping of small parties of tribesmen, reported to have fled to the south of the Peshawar district, the Afridis appeared definitely dispersed to their homes.

JERSEY HERD IS AWARDED PREMIER HONORS AT FAIR

the stock parade, a branch of the show which he is particularly interested.

Yesterday was another banner day and good crowds turned out during the afternoon and evening. The evening saw the largest turnout on the grounds, and every section of the midway and all buildings enjoyed a share of the pleasure-seeking throngs.

AMONG THE DISPLAYS

The following prize winners, gained from chance remarks of patrons who attended the fair on the opening day and yesterday is that the exhibition is a vast improvement on last year's efforts. More space is occupied in the buildings and the selection in displays is more varied. The agricultural exhibits of Surrey, Richmond and Victoria districts are attracting a great deal of attention and there was much specialization as to which one of the three would carry off the honours. Surrey's business and industrial displays are also receiving a novelty, but not novel, it appears.

Public approval was given the demonstration of the dial telephone, and from early afternoon to late at night hundreds of people passed through the course given by a corps of pleasing young ladies who are central telephone office, who appear to be well versed in the work and well able to explain the simplicity of operation of the instruments.

STOCK LEADS INTEREST

The livestock exhibits were again the centre of interest for large crowds.

Stock descended from the now famous Okanogan herd of Jersey cattle originally imported to this district of the country by J. S. H. Matson from the United States. Eastern Canada and the island of Jersey, were awarded premier honours at the exhibition when the Babbacombe herd obtained grand champion and senior champion bull, senior champion and senior champion female, first in exhibitor's herd and second in breeding herd. The herd also captured the Canadian Bank of Commerce Cup for the best cow in the show. The junior champion bull ribbon went to Wm. Lindell's Cordage Beau and junior champion cow to Lindell's O.O.O. Retta.

The winners in the Babbacombe herd were: Grand champion and senior champion, Okanogan Wexford Bindle, by Bindle and Young Diana, the latter a gold medal cow with 642 pounds fat; grand champion female and champion in class, Babbacombe Desdemona 3rd, by Le Mondin Oxford Lad and Madeline Desdemona. This cow also took the Bank of Commerce Cup. Babbacombe Dudley Carr was given a second in the two and under three class. The first is by Okanogan Wexford Bindle and Babbacombe Golden Titlands, and owned by E. C. Ramsey, of Duncan. Okanogan Jewel, by Mabelvale Duke Duke out of La Perouse Volage, was second in the three-year-old Babbacombe Bright Betty, by Okanogan Wexford Bindle out of Bright Patricia of Langford, was third.

Other exhibitors included David Spencer, of Victoria, Okanogan Farms, E. Dunwell, Sardis; R. Rindle, Cadboro Bay; Woodlawn Stanchion Club The Saanich Jersey Club was awarded second. In breeder's herd first, second and third went to the following: E. A. Wells & Son, Shannon Bros., and E. A. Wells & Son.

In the Ayrshires the senior champion cow went to E. A. Wells & Son, Shannon Bros' cow won the junior championship. There were no grand champion awards in this class. E. A. Wells & Son captured first in exhibitor's herd and J. C. DunWaters was awarded second. In breeder's herd first, second and third went to the following: E. A. Wells & Son, Shannon Bros., and E. A. Wells & Son.

James Turner, Cadboro Bay, was awarded senior, junior and grand champion in the Shorthorn bulls. He also won senior champion cow and firsts in all other classes in which he was entered.

A number of other awards have yet to be announced by the officials.

R. Ness, judge of the Ayrshire breed, who is on his second season in judging in Victoria, stated yesterday afternoon that in the Ayrshires in the Victoria show are particularly strong this year and are a fine, uniform bunch of cattle. "I have seen the British Columbia exhibits and the herd is certainly in wonderful shape. It is an education to look at the herd and compare the cattle with what they were last year when arrived from Scotland. Their condition is a credit to the man who has had the care of them. I wish to mention here Captain DunWaters, of Fleury, who has done more than any other man to put Ayrshires on the map in British Columbia. The captain took fifth and sixth in the senior yearling class Mr. Wells took first and second to this class, and Shannon Bros., third and fourth," said Mr. Ness.

The champion award in the senior female in Ayrshires went to S. M. Wells & Son, of Sardis.

Speaking of British Columbia as a cattle province, Mr. Ness, who comes from Dewinton, Alta., stated: "British Columbia, beyond the island as well as the Mainland is, I believe adapted to any class of cattle. There is no breed that I know that should not prosper in this section of the country. British Columbia is particularly strong in Jerseys, a fine dairy cow. The Island and Mainland are ideal places for any of the dairy breeds."

Judging of most of the livestock was completed last night and the Holstein and Guernsey classes will be judged today.

APPROVAL OF HALIBUT PACT IS EXPECTED

remain in force. The new treaty, the note says, was signed last month in Washington, provides that the International Fisheries Commission will be empowered, subject to approval of the Governments of Canada and of the President of the United States of Mexico, to suspend or modify the closed season provided for as to part or all of the waters of our Western coast.

"This provision would enable the halibut fishery of the coast to be adapt itself not only to the danger of Japanese competition on our own coast, but to any other unfortunate circumstances which may arise from time to time. It is to be fully expected that our fishermen will be let by the United States Government in adopting this much needed new convention," continued Mr. Babcock.

JAPANESE HAVE SUPPLY

It is Mr. Babcock's opinion that the most serious competition will not develop from within our own waters. The Japanese have an untouched supply of halibut at their disposal off Hokkaido, and it is unlikely that they will come twenty-third of the great distance between Japan and our ports to fish on our coast unless conditions should be especially true at this juncture, when it is entirely likely that such an attempt would result even in spite of the passage of the new treaty especially designed to meet such situations.

"To make considerable investment in such a project would, in the event of the passage of the new treaty, bring inevitable resentment and corresponding action to remedy the situation. It is to be expected that the Japanese will hold back in abeyance until it is seen whether or not the present rigidly fixed closed season regulations are retained.

"Recent statements by fishermen who have seen, and boarded the Japanese vessel which operated in the Bering Sea indicate the extremeness of this view and of the substantiable the first belief that this was a commercial venture. It is said that the vessel was operated by the Japanese Fisheries Bureau with fisheries students and not for profit, the authentic information is at hand as to the actual purpose of what would seem to have been an exploratory voyage. The matter should be regarded as bringing up for serious consideration the important question of the need for more flexible halibut regulations," concluded Mr. Babcock.

HEAVY RAIN WASHES OUT IRRIGATING FLUME

WENATCHEE, Wash., Aug. 19.—A miniature cloudburst swept the district between Wenatchee and Chelan tonight, washing out 110 feet of concrete irrigation flume near Binian and strewing the highway with boulders, and other debris was brought down from the hillsides.

The water stood three feet deep on the road in places. Thunder and lightning accompanied the downpour, while hail fell over Lake Chelan. Crops, it was said, suffered little from the storm.

She: "I made this cake all by myself."

He: "I can understand that, but who helped you lift it out of the oven?"

EXPECT BIG ATTACK WILL BE MADE UPON MacDONALD MINISTRY

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Well-informed political circles assert that Tory politicians are preparing a heavy campaign against Ramsay MacDonald's Socialist Government, basing their chief talking point on the failure of the Laborites to solve unemployment.

With 2,000,000 workless clamoring for relief, the Conservative leaders are understood to be planning to strike while iron is hot. The present unemployment figures break all previous British records, and word has been passed around Conservative strongholds to try to force a general election before the tide turns.

Next month will see the beginning of the Tory bombardment, and when Parliament reassembles October 28 all parties are likely to be prepared for a vital division.

A general election coming at such a time probably would mean postponement of the round table conference in India.

Industrial Progress Well Demonstrated At Willows Fair

New Standard Set by Splendid Exhibits of Local Merchants and Distributors—Display in Manufacturers' Building Extremely Striking—Many Novel Attractions in the Show

Glittering Array Catches the Eye

A PART from the many exhibits of agricultural products, art and craft work and attractions of more novel nature, the splendid showing of industrial and manufacturing progress as typified in the stalls of the local merchants and distributors, has set a new standard this year at the Willows Fair.

Entering the Manufacturers' Building the eye is taken by a glittering display of mechanical products and commodities that is striking in the extreme. The David Spencer, Limited, exhibit, occupying a considerable space to the left, is designed in a series of arches, beneath which are arranged great pyramids of canned and packed foodstuffs. At the far end a complete section is given over to Spencer products, including packed fruits, canned vegetables and teas and coffees. Extra large cups of the special blend are given out as samples.

Directly opposite the entrance executed to give the appearance of a comfortable room, richly carpeted, stands the Hudson's Bay exhibit, and here the well known machine showing a large selection of choice furs. Both made up into attractive wraps and also ready to be cut. The booth itself is worthy of special mention, being made entirely of Tiffany finish, a class of artificial stone. The three arches and the back scene are all in an autumnal hue, shaded delicately to blend with the display of furs. As typical of the exhibit may be taken a number of muskrat skins beside a made up muskrat coat. The attendant expert will explain the process by which the artistic shading of the finished coat is obtained. A slowly revolving mannequin in the background serves to show off the fur coat to carries to the best of advantage.

Also a Hudson's Bay Company booth is that showing electric vacuum cleaner. The whole is fitted up in the appearance of a cozy bedroom. These have been furnished in the best of taste, giving the visitor a very attractive and a splendid idea of what may be accomplished by careful choice in furnishings.

The highest grade of leather goods, trunks, handbags and full-weight articles have been arranged in the stall of James McMartin, leather goods dealer. The latest designs of Canadian and British workmanship are shown, together with some really artistic Italian leather goods. Also the Aerowood baggage gives splendid evidence of the finished products for women's and men's hand luggage.

Alcock, Downing & Wright, Limited, features the Sunbeam furnace and cabinet heater, together with the Gurney range. The cabinet heater is especially designed to fill the purpose of a furnace where basement facilities are unobtainable.

TWO EXHIBITS

The A. E. Taylor Company has arranged two exhibits, one to display the Easy washer and ironer, the latter having the special feature of a foot-controlled switch, leaving the hands free for operation. The pressure applied amounts to 100 pounds per square inch. In the other booth an always some fine examples of etching, art pictures and picture framing, which form a large part of their work.

Dutrisac shingles, the insulating asphalt shingles, form the material of which a booth has been built for the Bigney Roofing & Paper Company, Limited. These are shown in solid green and in variegated design.

Artistic panelling, executed by the Victoria plants of the British America Paint Company, forms a splendid background to the stall in which that company demonstrates the use of "Dript Art," a form of floor decoration which may be applied on the surface of old worn-out linoleum. A moving colored sign draws attention to the display of Satin-Glo and Japon paints.

The British Columbia Hardware & Paint Company has shown to great advantage the Furnace range and circulators, together with the Fawcett ranges and furnaces.

With a booth entirely constructed of the "Iron Trel" lineabling board, the Vancouver Island Hardwood Floor Company has made an attractive display of their line, Sesnon Kent hardwood floors, also demonstrating the dustless electric sander.

W. H. Malkin has a novel feature in the robot, named "Rufus," which proclaims the virtues of "Wilson's Best" in dumb show, while handing out premium certificates in a lifelike manner. These certificates are duplicates of those found in every package of Malkin's products, which are attractively displayed.

Blue Ribbon products are shown in an exceptionally well-stocked booth, including tea, coffe and baking powder. These attendants are in charge, looking after the patronage for the prize competition.

Samples of Jamieson Coffee are given out from the stall which features the W. A. Jamieson Coffee Company products, namely teas, coffees, spices and baking powders.

In the Women's Building West's Radio Shop has made a fine show being with the latest models of Atwater Kent and the lyric radio, artistically arranged against an attractive background. Premier Duplex vacuum cleaner is shown, with the new feature of the junior machine and also the "Significant" type that takes the place of all attachments.

F. Jeune & Bro., Ltd., has made a variegated display of fine awnings, hammocks and canvas goods.

The Fuel oil burner, displayed by the Oil Burner Sales Company, Limited, shows a range of five models of this all-Canadian oil burner. Six different types of cabinet heaters also are shown. Here also is a model of the tubular hot water boiler, electrically welded by the Marine Iron Works.

The A.E.C. oil burner, made here in Victoria by the Ramsay Machine Works, features the oil filtering system and an absolutely silent motor.

The Radiant oil burner, made by Joseph Somerfield, of British Columbia, boasts a silent operation and automatic thermostatic control.

Fire at Weston Razes Building; $500,000 Damage

TORONTO, Aug. 19.—Damage estimated at $500,000 was caused by a fire which destroyed the building and stock of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, near Weston, early today.

Charred and crumpled walls containing 3,000,000 pounds of waterproofed wool were all that remained of the structure after firemen had finally conquered the blaze, which was discovered at 4.30 a.m.

Officials were at a loss to determine the cause of the fire.

Great Britain's safest place as regards road accidents, last year was the Isle of Scilly, where there was not a single casualty.

COAL RESEARCH COMMITTEE TO START STUDIES

arrangements for the testing out of the new spark arresters for locomotives with the co-operation of the railways.

The Department of Mines has taken a leading part in the recent investigation into problems facing the coal industry of the province, and will lend every possible aid to the work of the committee.

The meeting today will take the form of an "inaugural assembly of the men named by the respective groups among the producers and users of coal and will pave the way for the permanent functioning of the new body as a centre for group for research into the needs of the fuel industry of the province.

PROBLEMS AHEAD

Need of some arrangement for the coal industry of the province was brought out at the recent conference, when it was shown that more coal was being produced in British Columbia in 1929 than today, and that greater numbers of men were employed ten years ago than at the present moment.

Coal production from British Columbia mines in 1920 totaled 2,595,[illegible] tons, required the services of 6,340 men, and averaged a production for the population of 3.1 tons per capita. In 1929 2,351,262 tons were mined, using 3,828 men, and the per capita production based on population had fallen to 3.7 tons.

In the same period Vancouver Island mines suffered a shrinkage of annual output from 1,602,254 tons to 1,120,605 tons, and the men employed fell from 4,243 to 2,747 in Island collieries in 1929.

These and other facts placed before the conference produced a marked effect and have awakened considerable interest in the proposals looking to the rehabilitation of the industry along general lines through education, research and the promotion of more efficient methods of producing and using coal.

The Savalo pulled into Cravenend Bay late today and anchored there shortly after an all-night hunt for the body of the owner. John J. Kelly, the master, reported the yacht left for sea yesterday morning in Baltimore, after a steward had failed to find his employer on the yacht about 10 o'clock last night.

LEFT TO SEA, MORNING

Mr. Black arrived at the Northbrook Airport on Long Island yesterday afternoon from Newport, R.I., where he had gone to visit his daughter. He stayed at the airport for an hour, chatting with Captain Harry Hogan, an official at Curtis-Wright Field, and at the end of the time boarded a speed boat which took him to a Manhattan dock, where the Savalo was tied up.

After being informed of the accident to Mr. Black, Paul Patterson, president of the Baltimore Sun publishing concern, telephoned to Curtis Wright, directing that the plane be proved into service to search for the publisher. Later Mr. Patterson, accompanied by Mr. Black's private secretary, arrived at the field by airplane from Baltimore.

They were picked up by a plane which had been searching for the publisher and were immediately taken to the Black yacht, anchored off Sandy Hook.

Four seaplanes engaged in a search for the publisher returned to their base tonight without having found a trace of him. They will resume the search early tomorrow morning.

There was no doubt, the minister thought, for a visit of British buyers to this province, particularly for investigation into the lower grades of commercial lumber which are now neglected on the United Kingdom market, but which are far in advance of British lumber still imported into Great Britain.

Meanwhile lumbermen of the province have made a formal request urging that a member of the Government be sent to Great Britain at once to press for lumber sales there. Anyone sent on the mission, it is represented, could accompany the Canadian delegates to the economic conference and be of great assistance in that connection also.

The lumbermen have advised the Government that none of their number is prepared or free to go to the United Kingdom at this time and are asking the Government to assist in taking advantage of the opportunity created in Britain through the renewal of interest in British Columbia lumber products, following the success of the test shipments of fir ties.

ATTENDED POWER PARLEY

Forty-eight countries were represented by 4,200 delegates at the World Power Congress, Mr. Burden continued. The ten-day deliberations were productive of much valuable discussion and the dissemination of data, which, when published in permanent form, will comprise a valuable reference work for governments and those actively engaged in the development of power.

The use of coal for the gasification of electric energy interested Mr. Burden intensely, particularly with regard to possibilities scientific advances made along this line may mean to the soft coal industry of the province. In general the congress was a pooling of experiences, contributed to by the leading nations of the globe, and is expected by Mr. Burden to have results of far-reaching consequence of benefit to those countries participating to the extent.

Sixteen delegates, under Dr. Charles A. Camsell, attended the congress on behalf of Canada. Hon. F. P. Burden representing this province. Mr. Burden spoke highly of the cordial welcome extended to the delegates which demonstrated afresh the healing ever of old scars left by the great conflict of arms. Nothing could exceed the attention paid to the delegates on behalf of the hosts, he said, and the courtesies shown to delegates attending for the various nations.

Papers read at the conference showed constructive advances made in power development and subsequent publication of these papers will be of great assistance to all nations, contended the minister. As a participant in the congress, British Columbia will receive a detailed report of the papers delivered at the assembly and a copy of all the proceedings.

EMPLOYMENT SERVICE COUNCIL OF CANADA TO HOLD CONFERENCE

OTTAWA, Aug. 19.—Numerous requests from various organizations for representation at the meeting of the Employment Service Council of Canada, which will open here Thursday, have been received by Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor. While it is considered impracticable to change the personnel of the council at present, Senator Robertson announced today that all organizations interested might send representatives to the meeting as observers.

The meeting has been convened for the purpose of considering the problem of unemployment as it exists in Canada at the present time and as it may develop during the coming Winter. It is hoped the members of the council will be able to suggest ways and means of coping with the situation.

In attempting to catch a litter of wild pigs, a youth at Frammersbach, Germany, was attacked by the mother and compelled to climb a tree, where he was held prisoner for several hours until a policeman rescued him.

FINANCIAL STABILITY OF PROVINCE

It is a dual indication of the reputation enjoyed by British Columbia in the eyes of financiers and the strength of the Government at present in control of affairs in this province that a sale of bonds should have been made at the unusually low rate of 3.85 per cent. It is a record never hitherto equaled in provincial financing and reflects every credit on the fiscal administration pursued by Mr. W. C. Shelly, the Minister of Finance.

Some six months ago British Columbia secured a lean at a lower rate than money was being obtained by any other province in the Dominion. Not only that, but the rate then obtained, namely, 4.10 per cent, equaled the previous low record for borrowings as far as this province was concerned. New a new record has been achieved and it is the result at once of the reputation which British Columbia enjoys and the astuteness of the Finance Minister in keeping a close eye on financial developments and seizing upon the opportune moment for launching a transaction.

It will be a matter of satisfaction to the taxpayers that their financial affairs are being administered in such a way as to command the utmost confidence of financiers. The latest financial transaction is, as well, an indication of the faith which Eastern Canada has in the future of British Columbia. This is in the nature of a reaction, because the spendthrift policy of the late Government had left a financial condition of affairs in this province which required close study and elaborate rectification. Mr. Shelly has not only restored confidence on the highest scale, but stability. British Columbia is now able to obtain money at better rates than any province in the Dominion and better even than the Canadian National Railways, which have behind them the credit of all the people of the Dominion. Such is the happy financial position which the province enjoys, and, as well, there is to the credit of its sinking funds a sum of $22,000,000 which is $1,260,000 in excess of requirements.

REGULATING AIR TRAFFIC

Mr. H. P. Guggenheim, the American Ambassador to Cuba and a noted patron of aviation, is a strong supporter of the idea that governments should exercise close control of this form of transportation. This is the obvious standpoint, because unless proper supervision prevails, it is undoubted accidents will occur. His plea is made for the regulation of the operation of airplanes and the movement of visitors at airports. He alludes to the rapidity with which airports are springing up everywhere, and says that, so far, owing to certain legal technicalities of jurisdiction there is a lack of adequate airport supervision. In a book he has written called "The Seven Skies," he maintains that proper regulation at airports can eliminate collisions in the air and on the ground as well as the serious danger to bystanders who crowd flying fields.

After all there should be some supreme authority affecting aerial development in all its phases. Mr Guggenheim's plea is of special significance in this Dominion, where there is a haphazard system being permitted in the establishment of aerial routes and the creation of airports and landing fields. One cardinal principle that ought to be enforced is that wherever aerial bases are established, whether on land or sea, they should be under direct supervision of the Federal authorities, and, if possible, owned by the Government. There ought to be strict definitions as to the provision of the facilities required, including the seaway necessary, the extent of runways and governance of every angle of the situation affecting the safety of life and property. Until such supervision is established there will be some trepidation among the public. Aviation is becoming more and more a popular means of transport. Like all other traffic it should be regulated more strictly than is the case at present and the authority should be the Federal Government.

CENTENARY OF URUGUAY

The Uruguayans have been celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of their Republic with justifiable enthusiasm. They had to pay a high price for freedom. They took a valiant part in the revolt against the control of Spain that began in 1810; they fought against the Portuguese of Brazil, who would have incorporated them in their Empire, and they repelled the repeated efforts of the Argentine Republic to force them into a larger federation. By 1825 they were able to declare Uruguay "free and independent of the King of Portugal, of the Emperor of Brazil, and of everyone else in the world."

Another three years passed before Brazil and the revolutionary Government of Buenos Aires abandoned their conflict for dominion in Uruguay, and, through the mediation of the British Minister of the day in the Argentine capital, recognized the independence of the little State, which was formally constituted a Republic two years later. There followed many years of constant revolution. It was only twenty-five years ago that the constant resort to arms for the settlement of political differences was abandoned. That the Republic should have survived so many melancholy years of revolution, and at last reached ordered government, is an indication of the persistence of the distinctive national character formed in the early period of sufferings for independence.

The Uruguayans are among the fortunate ones on the earth. Their Republic is the smallest of the South American States, wedged in between the Spanish-speaking Republic of Argentina and the larger Portuguese-speaking Brazil; but size is not in itself a criterion of good fortune. The Uruguayans have other benefits. They have a rich, rolling country, mainly devoted to stock raising; they have a delightful climate, and partly owing to this boon they have a happy temperament. With their orange groves and vineyards, their herds of cattle and flocks of sheep, and their thriving capital of Montevideo they prosper. There is no unemployment in Uruguay. The peso has fallen a little this year, but fundamentally the equity is sound.

British interest in Uruguay is of old standing. The Old Country's mediation helped when her independence was recognized. Great Britain exports large quantities of goods to the Republic, and net the least valuable of these exports, from the Uruguayan point of view, has been football, at which the Uruguayans are experts. The people of the country are keen on increasing trade with all parts of the British Empire, especially in manufactured articles as against their own exports of hides and meat. Canada's share of trade is there, and Uruguayan good will is not lacking.

MARRIED WOMEN'S RIGHTS

A memorial has been presented to the British Prime Minister signed by 222 Members of Parliament asking that a bill should be introduced respecting the nationality of married women. This has long been a source of controversy and there is a desire that the matter should be cleared up to the satisfaction of the women themselves. Up to the present the law has been that a married woman carries an alien loss of her nationality. The memorial asks that this practice should be reversed. Moreover, in the case of an alien woman married to a British subject, the proposal is that it should be optional whether she takes British nationality or retains her own. In other words, the contention is that "a married woman should be regarded as an individual, compared to her own right to claim and be admitted to British citizenship." Mr. Ramsay MacDonald has declared himself in favor of such a policy and he is now being asked to put it into effect.

It is conceivable that the Celtic race may yet prove the salvation of the world. That race, at least, is capable of retaining its ideals. "Let us have faith in democracy," said a lady Mr. Stanley Baldwin. "If you do, you make a very terrible compound."

A farmer in the Harz Mountains has replaced the scarecrow by the "crocodile tear." "Such is the violence of its objurations," says The London Times, "that birds fear the face of no scarecrow living, and do not mind at all the futile stick-waving of young and inept bird-scarers, keep their distance when the loudspeaker is at work." Radio announces have at last found a real niche in the scheme of civilization.

A new metaphor will have to be found for those who shed "crocodile tears." Latest research work shows that crocodiles weep so copiously because they have every justification. Their secret grief is disease. Crocodiles sleep with their mouths open. It has been discovered that the disease fly has a habit of walking about the reptiles' mouths and biting the tenderer parts. In rage the crocodile snaps its mouth and swallows the fly which contains the germ of the sleeping sickness. The tears of crocodiles are because of the suffering they endure.

ULTIMA REQUIES

"Just a few hopes, just a few sighs
Just a few visions of delight;
Just a few dreams of Paradise,
And kisses in the night.

"Just a few friends that come and go;
Brief, eager youth, and hirsler age,
The warp and woof of joy and woe,
And then the closed page.

"Just a few comrades in the throng,
Shoulder to shoulder in the throng,
Just a last struggle for the right
In a mad world of wrong.

"Lord, grant me with my latest breath,
Mid failing hearts and death's alarms,
Tho still small voice, and underneath
The Everlasting Arms."

—From "Colonial Songs and Lyrics. By the Hon. Stephen Coleridge.

THE COMET

"Streamer sublime, who journeys toward the sun
In continuous flight and deep duration
And ever travellest with increasing pace,
Until the zeal of greater light is won,
And, when the forward toils at last are done,
Dost move, relaxed, with easier place,
Then wish thou knew, say, dost thou trace
The course of souls whose life is here begun?
Not all unhappy was that strain; but, then,
What of those other souls, whose fly plan
Who greet the sun from you immensity,
And, going, ever get to return?
Give me
The sin of them who know Earth for a span,
And pass to Love's infinity again."

—A. T. Sheerman, in The London Quarterly.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

"The days of real sport."

The late Mr. Justice Eberts, who died a year ago in British Columbia, was, he held us, the best amateur athlete Chatham ever turned out. He could run 100 yards in ten seconds, toss the caber, put the shot, throw the cricket ball 117½ yards, was a good oarsman, a good shot, and a crack military player, and was pronounced by Captain Wellesley, a cricket man in England, as the best amateur bowler in the world. He was very fast and accurate, and could hit a single wicket three times out of six.

The interviewer was a reporter of The Toronto Globe and the interviewed was Mr. R. B. Wells, of Chatham, Ont., who remembers seeing a cricket match played seventy-nine years ago, and is described by the interviewer as the Grand Old Man of Canadian cricket. The match which was played in a long time ago was played in Detroit, Mich., where there probably will never be another cricket match played. It was a generation has arisen which knows not cricket and cares for nothing but baseball. We know how late Mr. Justice Eberts hailed from Chatham, Ont., that he was a keen politician and a delightful story-teller between political speeches, that he was a splendid wing shot, but did not know of his prowess as an all-round athlete. Nor do we believe many of the people in Victoria who remember him still had any idea when he was still with them that he was once famed for his feats of strength and skill to such a very different kind of sport.

We can remember that in earlier times Chatham possessed a cricket club and that a team from that club played and was victorious somewhere throughout Ontario; but we had forgotten that until we saw the interview with the Grand Old Man given by Mr. Wells. We also can remember meeting a man from Chatham, Ont., who had been in the war and chiefly famous about his all other districts of Canada for his rattlesnake and his colored boatsbaseball. That distinction was said to be due to the proximity of the place to the United States border. The colored people crossed the river into Canada in order to shake off the shackles of slavery and to dodge the bloodhounds of the sons of the slave-drivers. They sought liberty and pursued happiness in a new land, and there recently had been successful, for they increased and multiplied and prospered in Canada. The real life refugees are probably all dead now, having found out that it were better to shuffle off their mortal coils than fight for existence against a human population which was increasing almost as fast as that of their native State of Michigan.

The statement of Mr. Wells that he was the embodiment of the spirit of cricket far back in other years and that he had seen a team from Canada defeat the seventy-nine years ago knocked a bullet in our head into a complete fit. Until reading that statement we believed that Mr. Harry Cameron, of Winnipeg in Summer and Victoria in Winter, was the only real and authentic Grand Old Man of Canadian cricket. We remembered that Mr. Cameron some time ago we found out that he had played cricket in London, Ont., against a professional team which was touring Canada under the captaincy of Richard Daft, a celebrated Nottinghamshire player.

We had not been very long in Canada at that time, and were not particularly interested in cricket but went to London for the purpose of seeing the game played as it then was played by the very best talent in the world. The professionals met a team of twenty-two amateurs, and they might just as well have played a team of forty-four amateurs, for when the amateurs were in there was almost a continuous procession of batsmen from the pavilion to the wickets, and from the pavilion to the wicket they appeared to place the ball in spots upon the field where there were no fielders to stop it. We can remember that the Englishmen had two bowlers, one very slow and the other extremely fast, and that the other duties of the umpires appeared to be polishing the ball.

How that we are in a reminiscent mood, we might as well tell another story, a story about baseball. On the same occasion we had upon which the cricket match was played we went to see a game of baseball. London had a strong baseball team in those days. In one of the then big leagues, and we believe that in that year the Tecumsehs were the championship of the league. A celebrity named Goldsmith was the London pitcher, and he was the baseball fans of those days fondly avered that their pitcher was the man who discovered the art of pitching a curved ball. But the fact which will be particularly interest to the baseball-fans of this day was that on that day the umpire stood behind the pitcher with a white umbrella over his head and never opened his mouth to give a decision upon a play unless he was appealed to by the players. The name of that umpire was Jack Gillen, a cricketer when in the mood for playing games and an employee of a newspaper. We believe he was engaged in the business department of The London Advertiser. The connection between baseball and cricket was not then so remote as it is now.

THE OLD ROMANCES

When we are they now, the old romances of calmer days than these, the joys that flowered to brilliant blossom and thrilling melodies? Too soon the world has lost its answer for romance and love, and with each age man tells the harder to face with lance swift wings. Too soon he has forsaken pleasure in Nature's fair domain to barter life for golden treasure, to board his golden ship. Yet now, day by day, the spirit and singing that passed when Earth was young, yet leaps their tuneful echoes ringing in every man's tongue! They sleep, until man's soul be shaken from out the dream of greed, when once again they will awaken, return to fill his heart. They will come back, the old romances, as fresh as wind and dew, returning over time's expanses to make life bloom anew.

INSURANCE MEN ARE GATHERING IN CITY

Manufacturers' Life Policy Writers Are Opening Convention at Empress Hotel Today

The members of the One Hundred Thousand Club of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company, which holds its gathering in this city commencing today, are arriving at the Empress Hotel, which will be the convention headquarters. While a lot of the local details connected with the gathering have been looked after by James S. Stewart, the district manager, with headquarters here, officials of the company who are now on the ground are busy with the final arrangements.

Alexander MacKenzie, superintendent of agencies for the company, and Wilson Thorpe, secretary of the One Hundred Thousand Club, are now here from headquarters in Toronto.

The Manufacturers' Life ranks among the most prosperous of the life insurance companies operating in Canada. For the year 1929 the assets of the company increased since $12,000,000, showing a total at the end of the year of nearly $100,000,000.

WEATHER CONDITIONS INCREASE VISITORS FROM CALIFORNIA

At the meeting of the Puget Sounders and British Columbians Associated, held in Vancouver, on Saturday, the information was forthcoming that while the number of tourists coming to the Pacific Northwest was somewhat below normal, the visitors ranked higher as a class than in other years. The very warm weather in California during the past few weeks was having the effect of increasing the number.

California contributed more than twice as many tourists as any other state in the Union.

Preceding the endorsation by the organization of the Alaska highway through British Columbia, David Lawrence, of Victoria, who was also alluded to the importance of linking up through this means with the Yukon.

C. E. Oves, Spokane, reported that the Pacific Northwest Scenic Highway Association, an affiliated organization, was maintaining four contact men at the entrance to Yellowstone National Park for the purpose of directing tourists to British Columbia and Puget Sound. He also told the members that 350,000 people had patronized the bungalow camps at Rapid City, S.D., already this Summer.

How B.C. Joined Canada

Story of Confederation as Told by The Colonist, Which Championed the Cause of Union

By HON. A. DE W. MCLEAN

PART II

Economic State of Affairs in British Columbia Made Action Imperative—Union With Canada or Annexation With the United States

IN 1867 British Columbia was beginning to recover from a period of depression from which it had suffered for three years. It was known by 1864 that the Cariboo gold fields were not "poor man's diggings"; they could not give continuous employment to a large population. Cariboo suffered a great blow that year, in the failure of Macdonald & Co.'s Bank in Victoria, through which it was estimated the loss of miners lost upwards of $100,000. The colony found itself in a precarious position.

"The effort to build cities in traders and speculators without a commercial population to support them had proved a gigantic failure," says Judge Howay, in his history, "British Columbia." "It was an attempt to found colonies on sand—though the sand was golden."

But with the realization that the output of gold could not support the population, other resources were touched. The lumber industry developed to a large proportion on the Cariboo and there was rapid development with the increase of wagon roads and other means of communication. Within a short time the colony was manufacturing its own flour and lumber, and timber. Stock raising was also taken up with great success.

But Vancouver Island, fill 1866 a separate colony, was slower in recovery. Financially it had suffered more than the Mainland, since most of the business with Cariboo was done in Victoria. The Island found itself with a decreased revenue and an expensive administration to maintain. Union was sought with the Mainland, by which it was thought that the sharing of the expenses of government would be beneficial to both. Geographically, British Columbia was in a peculiarly isolated position. It was separated from the rest of Canada not only by a barrier of mountains but by vast stretches of interlying territory still under the rule of the Hudson's Bay Company. To the south the United States hemmed it in, and much of its communication with the outside world was made through American territory.

In 1867 the purchase of Alaska was completed by the Republic, which, as The British Colonist commented, "places the whole of Her Majesty's possessions on the Pacific in the position of a piece of meat between two slices of bread, where it may be devoured at a single bite."

British Columbia, closely hemmed in by her colossal neighbor, has scarcely room left in which to draw a long breath." says an editorial of the day.

She was indeed, as an American statesman described her, "a derelict of nations." Confederation or annexation: one of them was her destiny.

Hungarians Plan to Make Otto King by Election to Throne

Writer Says New Plan Would Avoid Opposition of Anti-Hapsburgs—Religious Festival Occupies Much Attention in Budapest

By JOHN GUNTHER
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 19—A formula whereby Archduke Otto could become King of Hungary without arousing the opposition of anti-Hapsburgs has been devised by legitimist leaders, The Chicago Daily News correspondent learns.

This plan suggests Otto not as an hereditary ruler who takes the throne by right as soon as he comes of age, but as a "traditional king" elected by the Magyar people. Parliament would create Otto king not as a Hapsburg action, but as the best available candidate for the throne, since the Hungarians do not want a foreign monarch.

Festivals beginning in Budapest yesterday in honor of St. Stephen, patron saint of Hungary, and his son St. Emmerich, whose 900th anniversary is being celebrated, have spurred interest in Otto's claims to the throne. The Vatican is known strongly to support the Hapsburgs, and the Pope has sent a legate to Budapest accompanied by several Cardinals.

ALL ARE CELEBRATING

A Eucharistic Congress will be held today followed by a procession of barges on the Danube with the Papal Legate carrying the Blessed Sacrament to St. Stephen's Church. All Hungary is in a gala spirit in honor of what is called the biggest manifestation of Catholicism ever held in Central Europe since the World War.

Parliament is assembling in a special session, and Regent Admiral Horthy, Premier Count Bethlen and other leaders, as well as Cardinal Serédi, Primate of Hungary, are greeting the Papal visitors.

The two factors, without which Otto and his ambitious mother, ex-Empress Zita, are helpless, are first, Count Bethlen, Hungarian Premier, and second, the French Foreign Office.

WILL OF THE PEOPLE

Any attempt at a coup without Bethlen, it is said, would be absolutely helpless, just as in Rumania Carol could never have returned had not Julio Maniu, peasant Premier, paved the way for him. Once Bethlen agrees, Otto's return might be easy; until Bethlen agrees, it is either impossible or doomed to violent failure. Bethlen has never committed himself beyond guarded statements that Otto's return depends on the "will of the people," and that no bloodshed or danger to Hungary as a nation can be tolerated.

However, Bethlen is felt by some observers to be tired of office after nine years, and is ready to turn in his hand; by others he is said to be willing that Otto return if such restoration would make him a king-maker and thus perpetuate his power.

These views obviously are contradictory. The gist of the matter is that Bethlen alone, from a domestic point of view, can guarantee Otto's return—and no one knows what is in Bethlen's mind.

FRANCE IS FACTOR

The other factor is France. The Czechs at present consider Otto's return a casus belli, and therefore no move can be made until the Czechs are held off. Rightly or wrongly the Legitimists consider Jugoslavia and Rumania "fixed"; it is only the Czechs they fear. The only way to hold off the Czechs is through the influence of France, and thus the chief effort of the Legitimists at present is to attempt to persuade the Quai d'Orsay not to oppose Otto's return.

The Hungarian Government has not acted in this intrigue, but various agents of Zita, chiefly her brother, Prince Sixtus, have been active.

GAIN IS POLITICAL

Advantages that France would gain are outlined as chiefly political. If France supported Otto, France would be stealing thunder from Italy, and would enter Central European politics as a friend and benefactor of Hungary. Hungary, Legitimists say, would drop its Italian alliance and be willing, under the French wing, to form a Danubian Economic Confederation. What is more, some Legitimists tell me that they would, as the quid pro quo, considerably modify the Hungarian Revisionist aims to something that the Little Entente would like.

BANK ROBBERS GIVEN LASHES AND JAIL TERM

Wheels of Justice Move Quickly for Pair Who Held Up Office

YOUNG MEN CONFESS CRIME IN HAMILTON

HAMILTON, Aug. 18.—The wheels of justice moved with lightning-like rapidity for John Sarvan and Norman Sherratt, of Toronto, today.

Appearing in police court, they pleaded guilty to a charge of robbing the Royal Bank here yesterday, while armed, and also admitted stealing an automobile. They were sentenced six years in Portsmouth Penitentiary and thirty lashes on the charge of robbery. To this was added two years in prison for the car theft, the terms to run consecutively.

They within less than twenty-four hours after their offence had been committed, Nevin and Sherratt had started on the long journey towards expiating their crime.

DIES FROM SHOCK

NORTH VANCOUVER, Aug. 19.—George Carl Leighton, 2758 Graveley Street, Vancouver, whose body was recovered from the water near the lighthouse at the Lions Gate on Sunday following a boating accident, died from shock, according to evidence submitted at an inquest this afternoon by Dr. O. E. Bayfield, of West Vancouver.

Chief witness at the inquiry was John McCormack, who was with Leighton at the time. He and Leighton were trolling near the lighthouse when Sir Prince David passed them, he declared. Seeing the swell from the vessel, Leighton, who was rowing, turned the bow of their rowboat head on to the waves, according to McCormack. From then on, he declared, he remembered nothing other than being thrown from the small boat and struggling in the water.

B.C. HUNTING LICENCE FEES ARE UNCHANGED

Total of 530 Cougars Shot Last Year, Bounty Payments Disclose

GAME PROTECTION IS PRODUCING RESULTS

No change has been made in the scale of licence fees for resident and nonresident hunters in British Columbia this year, it was stated at the game licence branch yesterday. Resident British subjects will pay $2.50 for their licence to hunt birds. Deer and bear will cost $5 for a general licence that includes the hunting of big game; or $10 for the complete licence that covers all game and trapping as well. This scale is the same as in force in previous years. Nonresident licence fees also remain the same as before.

Considerable improvement has resulted from the change in the system of game protection, it is stated by A. Bryan Williams, game commissioner, in his annual report to the Attorney General covering last licence year. Conflicting views and equipment may be required in extensions of the system due to the greater number taking part in hunting in the province, he reported.

During the year bounties were claimed on 530 cougars, compared with 444 in the previous year. In his report Mr. Williams pays tribute to increased duties necessitated in the effective covering of the province by game wardens, and indicates that additional staff will be required for the carrying on of the work in future years.

The sum of $42,122 was paid in bounties on cougars, coyotes, eagles and big horned owls, the report continues. In addition to bounties for the cougars, 411 wolves, 1,881 coyotes and 1,398 owls. Hunters in the Cumberland area earned $6,413 in bounties, while $5,074 was paid in Vancouver, $4,281 in Victoria and lesserr sums at other centres.

VERNON, Aug. 18. — Jewelry valued at between $800 and $1,000 was taken from C. J. Whitend Jewelry store on Barnard Avenue, between closing time Saturday night and opening of the store this morning. The burglary was discovered by Mr. Whitend on opening for business this morning.

The contents of whole trays had been scooped up. Their contents included wedding rings, ladies' pearls, watches and signet rings.

Entrance to the store was obtained through opening a window at the rear of the store. There is a curtain at the rear of the show window, and it is presumed the thief or thieves hunted in the shadow to remove the contents of the showcases.

BRICK-MAKING IS SPEAKER'S THEME

W. Luney Gives Interesting Address at Luncheon Meeting of Kiwanis Club

The two, "mystics from Cairo" who were installed to address the Kiwanis Club luncheon yesterday surpassed all expectations. Despite the fact that their name made it impressive to read and impossible to pronounce they were eloquent, and had a perfect command of the English language. In fact, when they appeared in the flesh to address the meeting, a close inspection revealed the familiar features of William Luney and C. Jack McDowell.

Mr. Luney held his hearers enraptured for twenty minutes in the brick-making industry in Victoria. Brick-making, he said, was something which was well advanced before the dawn of civilization. Some of the arches in the old Roman wall at Bath, England, were made of exactly the same type of hollow tiles as those in use today.

In Victoria, continued the speaker, the industry was confined to the making of bricks. Seven types of drain tiles and eight kinds of wall tiles were made besides the interlocking tile which had recently been patented.

Mr. McDowell described the recent charter presentation ceremony at the inaugural meeting of the new Kiwanis Club at Seattle, Washington. The ceremony had been attended by himself, Mr. Luney, Harold Ridgon and T. Kelway, who had presented the new club with a Union Jack. Mr. McDowell spoke enthusiastically of the hospitality which had been accorded members of the Victoria Club.

A resolution endorsing the views of Moses Coulsworth regarding cardinal sin was submitted to the members. J. L. Beckwith felt that the 6th should not commit itself beyond recommending the Government to appoint a commission to look into the question, and the matter was referred back to the committee in order that a new resolution might be drafted.

NEW BERRIES ARE ON SHOW AT EXHIBITION

Lower Mainland Growers Introducing Varieties Which May Have Special Value

A the instance of the horticultural branch of the Provincial Department of Agriculture there are on exhibition in the fruit and flower section of the exhibition, a few Willows some samples of blueberries and also one of a brambleberry that is attracting attention of those interested in the development of the fruit resources of this province. The berries were brought over by G. E. W. Clarke, the district horticulturist for the Lower Mainland.

Mr. Clarke has taken a good deal of interest in the move that is on foot to introduce new varieties into the province, and, following the Vancouver show, where these samples were exhibited, he brought them on to Victoria so that the public might have the opportunity of seeing them.

The blueberries are from the plantations of E. W. Johnston, of Salt Island. He has interested himself in the obtaining of samples of these berries from the Eastern states and after six years is now in a position to recommend certain varieties which are now on exhibition.

It is pointed out by Mr. Clarke that the blueberry is a bush that thrives on rather arid ground and might well be utilized in places where other fruits would not do well. In the case of the brambleberry that is shown a different origin accounts for the bringing of it into public consideration. This berry is a delicious one of large size, which has been improved by A. C. Dann, of Haisic. He found the original plant growing in the Fraser Valley and has been following a selection process since then until now he is prepared to ask for the recognition of it as a distinct variety.

CHILD DISEASES ARE DISCUSSED AT PARLEY

Chicago Professor Delivers Opening Lecture at International Pediatrics Congress

By BJORN BURKHOLDT
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 19.—Further lectures on the all-important subject of child diseases are being delivered by world-famous pediatricians at the second annual meeting today of the International Pediatrics Congress before the highest Swedish dignitaries and 480 specialists in children's diseases from thirty-four nations.

A noted pediatrician of Chicago, Prof. Julius Hays Hess, had the honor of delivering the opening lecture yesterday. Professor Hess dwelt on the biological effect of direct and indirect ultra-violet irradiation. His exceptionable conclusion was:

DIETARY FACTORS

"It is doubtful whether with all our antirachitic measures we shall be able to eradicate rickets, as we do not understand the dietary factors in its aetiology (origin)."

According to Dr. Hess, the question is still undetermined whether adults require the antirachitic factor for normal health and nutrition, his opinion being: "If so, they require it in an exceedingly small amount."

Dr. Hess thinks that irradiated ergosterol given in a newer and weaker dosage is not harmful. (Ergosterol, a vegetable oil subjected to an infusion of sun rays, is an odorless, tasteless, colorless element, possessing in a drop the nutritional or medical value of a spoonful of cod liver oil.) He said that "direct irradiation or irradiated ergosterol is of value in treating rickets, tetany and osteomalacia (condition of bone-softening prevalent also in adults), and also decayed teeth, and in the prevention of the loss of calcium in nursing women."

SHOULD MAKE TEST

Dr. Hess explained that cod liver oil must not be regarded as a mere counterpart of irradiated ergosterol.

"It contains, in addition, vitamin 'A' and perhaps another nutritional factor," said the Chicagoan. "A thorough test should be made of fortified cod liver, that is to say of irradiated ergosterol suspended in cod liver oil. Irradiated fluid and dry milk are of decided value in rickets and tetany, but at present technical difficulties in preparation, as well as practical difficulties of distribution, stand in the way of wide adoption."

SIX MONTHS IN JAIL FOLLOWS PASSING OF DISHONORED CHEQUE

Douglas Hodgson will have to spend six months in jail on the charge preferred against him of having obtained credit under false pretences. The case was heard on Monday in the city police court, but the acting magistrate deferred his sentence until yesterday morning. The charge was one of obtaining a "Drive Yourself" car in the city and giving in return a cheque which was not honored at the bank.

The acting magistrate, C. J. Prior, in passing sentence, said that he could not find anything in favor of the young man's defence. He could not believe that he did not know that there was not the required $25 to the credit of his account in the bank.

In compliance with Mussolini's order, 30,000 youths of Italy are attending Summer camps.

1,475 PERSONS LOST LIVES IN EARTHQUAKE

Official Figures Released by Italian Chief—Premier Party Wins Senate 1,211,000 Members

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

ROME, Aug. 18. — Speaking through its favorite mouthpiece, the "Order Sheet" of the Fascist Party, the Italian Government gives 1,475 as the official total of the dead in the recent "vulture" earthquake in South Central Italy.

This same issue of The Order Sheet, issued last night, announces that the Fascist Party membership is now 1,211,000, of which 1,040,000 are regular male members.

Eighteen hundred university professors have been recruited into the ranks, thanks to the strenuous campaign for more Fascistized universities and the rule that all professors must show sympathy for the Fascist principle.

ISLAND ARTISTS' WORK IS SHOWN

Art Exhibition at Willows Includes Fine Work by Local Painters

STANDARD IS BETTER

Visitors to the Provincial Fair this year are being offered an unusually interesting art exhibition. This is not only due to the presence of the Canadian National Gallery collection, the standard of work throughout is much above the average, both in the collection entered through the Island Arts and Crafts Society and in the competitive entries. The former occupies part of the south end of the hall, and the latter fill the entire north end. In the Arts and Crafts' display are several tables of pottery, wood-carving, etc, which are attracting a great deal of attention.

As already commented, the pictures are much above the average, and one can only surmise that the local artists are entering better work or that the hanging committee is exercising stern discrimination. Before the work is over, it is more than probable that the collection will be considerably added to by the return of pictures which were sent over to Vancouver for the exhibition there. In the meantime, one notices among the exhibits some very fine things.

W. P. Weston's "Mount Temple" has already been referred to, inadvertently, as part of the National Gallery exhibit. It is interesting to contrast this bold interpretation with Ida Uhthoff's oil painting of the same mountain. Although in technique and intention, it is along more orthodox lines, it is a departure from the conventional dead-fashioned style, and gives a fine sense of the proportions of the great mass of rock and snow. Distance is well conveyed by the atmospheric and perspective. A valley intervenes between the brown foreground and the blue and white crest of the mountain, and is filled with drifting Indian Summer haze.

B.C. MOUNTAINS

Other paintings by the same artist are "After Sunset," the foreground in sombre russets and blues, but crazy peaks beyond still catching the rosy after-light of day; "Winter," which has sharply defined snow ridges and needle-like pines against the pale sky; "Chasm," the perpendicular crags and blue shadows, of which are streaked with snow, and "October, B.C.," which represents a view of some mountain district which is gorgeous with autumn color, oranges, green and gold, with mountains of cool grey lifting their heads aloft in the hazy atmosphere of the distance. These all have fine feeling, and the technique has a more assured touch.

N. Drummond's work has invariable soundness. "Hunting Morning" shows the hounds on the trail in the early morning, with mists still hovering about the quiet copses. The scarlet coats of the huntsmen give an abrupt touch of color to the otherwise unassertive picture. "Indian Scouts," showing picturesquely-clad Blackfeet trailers with their ponies on a ridge of mountains high above a valley, is a good figure study. The artist's draughtsmanship is always sure and her detail is unerring.

A faithful study of the "Parliament Buildings" is shown in L. A. Lewkewich's picture of that title. The artist has caught the picture at a happy season, when the red maples thorn is in bloom and the willow is freshly dressed with young green. The composition is very pleasing. Nearby is another painting from the same brush, "Holyhock," which pictures an old-fashioned flower in a pleasing way and clean color and excellent drawing.

T. Bashford is represented by several bits: "The Morning, Equatial," "Morning," the latter depicting a characteristic bit of Sooke with the mountains sloping down to a sluggish tide streaked with the reflected rose-lights of dawn. There is fidelity of picture both in drawing and coloring.

The only "Wet Coast" scene in the exhibition comes from the brush of E. Bainbridge Smith. It is a very charming little study of inlet waters, with mists drifting back from the mountain tops. The same artist shows a glimpse of "Beaver Lake" with water lilies on its surface. The techniques in both these is clean and meticulous without being too detailed.

MORE COAST SCENES

"Leisure Hours," picturing in clean, bright colors, a Japanese on a beach, and "Mouth of Paler Creek," where the characteristic greenish grey color of the water is cleverly caught, and now works entered by Henry Hood. D. S. Cameron is represented by "The Malahat," which shows a greatly improved style. The artist has brought fully pictured the sweeping fulness of the mountain which fills in the end of his valley with its bright green meadows and jade waters. "In the Park" is also from his brush.

Will Menslows' "Powder Magazine, Esquimalt," is a picturesque treatment of a subject which has been strangely neglected by artists, although it has all the picture values should appeal to them. Dora Dunnough has a strikingly fine oil painting of chrysanthemums, which has the feeling definitely as she has associated with these blossoms.

WATER COLORS

The water-color section is equally good. In glassing through the pictures one is again struck by the recurrence of the title "Mount Temple." After the two oils of the same subject, commented on above, it is entertaining to note what a third artist in the medium of water color has to say. T. Fripp's style is immediately recognized. He brings more finesse into the description, but one questions whether the eye is not so occupied with the detail that it loses a sense of the majesty and immensity which the artist sees and which he tries to convey by broader treatment. It is delicate work, but more photographic than interpretative. The mountain does not sav or inspire one. On the other hand its rocky buttresses, with snowdrifts piled among the ledges, its flaring skirts of snow, look "easy going" to the beholder. Ida Uhthoff's "Tonahal," on the other hand, although a small picture, holds a mighty mountain. This artist feels the aloofness of nature.

Another painter of mountains, although these are not the bare crags of the Rockies, is G. Woodward, who introduces into his background for her "Crescent Lake." Blues strongly dominate this picture. Among the other pictures by this artist are "Quinsam Beach" and "June Meadows." A souvenir of an African visit is seen in her "Mosque, Tunis."

If the islands about the northern end of the Haro Straits were suddenly submerged a happy record of them would survive in Col. L. O. Pakes' many pictures. He has found their atmosphere, their contour lines, the peculiar character of the sky-line and coloring which is to be seen from their little bays and harbours. His coloring is individual, with a fondness for soft browns and greens. His clouds drift; his islands slip into the distance. "Mayne Island Rendezvous" and "Rocks at Cole Low Tide" are all characteristic. In the first, one of the C.P.R. boats is shown slipping along in pure atmosphere, as boats so often seem to do. The composition is invariably pleasing.

Another artist whose style can always be recognized is J. Bamford's. There is a firm structural quality in his lines, and the coloring is deep and intentional without straying into more brilliance. "Glimpse of Victoria" is a very charming little picture, which unconsciously shows the British Columbia capital in terms of English scenery. No artist makes Victoria look so really English as Mr. Bamford, who sculptures her effect by selection of subject as much as by treatment. In this little view he has given us a distance church tower the centre of his picture. "Shawnigan Lake" is another example of his work.

A wind-disciplined tree, rugged and strong, is the subject of Will Sewell's "The Veteran."

A faithful exhibitor is J. Crease, whose colors are always clean and fine, and whose composition is always pleasing. There is nothing indeterminate about his work. "Arbutus Bloom" and "Arbutus Lake," each of which is obviously what the title conveys.

On a panel by itself is a collection of four or five little pastels by T. S. Gore, the president of the club. They are nearly all fantastic subjects, including "Butcher's Gardens," which emphasizes the brilliance of the greens as well as the floral contrast. "Sea Urchins" and "Mumbles Island." The last, done in oils, is considered by many to be the best of the group. The values are expressed in quiet harmony, and one feels the mystery of the isolated buildings.

Rose Willis and P. M. Young have several pastoral and marine subjects which are pleasingly dealt with.

For decorativeness nothing in the collection compares with M. Blackwell's flower studies. A bowlful of scarlet and yellow poppies and a bunch of creamy-white roses are painted with the freedom as well as delicacy. The artistic arrangement of the flowers, the fresh and harmonious coloring, exquisite craftsmanship shown in the drawing of the petals and foliage single these out for immediate notice.

SOLDIERS INJURED AS CAR OVERTURNS

Sergeant Pauline and Gunner Pollard in Sunshine Hospital Following Accident in Saanich

When an army transport truck overturned on the West Saanich Road, near Observation Point, two soldiers were seriously injured, while a number of others escaped with minor injuries. Sergeant Pauline, 5th Heavy Battery, R.C.A., met with a fractured thigh, while Gunner Pollard, of the same unit, suffered a fractured skull. Both sustained bad bruises and cuts. Pauline and Pollard are at present in the Jubilee Hospital under the care of Dr. J. S. McQuillan.

According to Constable P. K. Chamberlain, of the Saanich Police, who visited the scene of the accident, the army transport truck was returning to the city from Heal's Rifle Ranges. Nearing the bend on the West Saanich Road at Observatory Road the truck was forced to reverse off the street to avoid colliding with a car approaching in the opposite direction, when the latter vehicle took the turn too widely. The wheels of the truck were caught in the loose gravel on the roadside and got out of control. Striking a stump, the vehicle overturned and then slid the further out.

Sergeant Pauline and Gunner Pollard, the more seriously injured, were rushed to the Jubilee Hospital, where they are now reported as making good progress.

DIAL INSTRUMENTS ARE DEMONSTRATED

One of the most popular booths at the exhibition is that of the British Columbia Telephone Company, which is conducting a dial telephone demonstration in the electricity building. A staff of demonstrators is on hand to explain how to use the dial telephone, which come into use in Victoria late next year.

The spacious booth, finished in ivory, with a blue background, dotted with large palms, and has in the centre a raised platform upon which a phone exchange contained in a glass case, is fully equipped with the demonstration telephones, visitors being able to operate the intricate electric apparatus which can be seen working behind the glass.

To attract attention to the booth and to arouse interest in a telephone dial is mounted on the back wall and lights flash on and off in the hidden mechanism.

Attractive young ladies are on hand to explain how to use the dial telephone and pamphlets containing brief instructions are being given out. The public has been invited by the company to "test the system. A steady stream of people has been receiving instruction.

TEXTILE WORKERS ON STRIKE CHANGE THREE REDS OUT OF VILLAGE

BESSEMER CITY, N.C., Aug. 19.—Striking textile workers today ordered out of the village three men whom they characterized as "reds."

Leaders of 500 employees who walked out at the American Mills Co. plants here this morning, declared "We're running this outselves, we don't want any Reds in here."

The textile workers said their wage scale had been cut 20 to 30 per cent, and said they had asked president of the local mills.

Saying the wage cut was made necessary by conditions in the industry, Goldberg said today:

"I'm just running the mills to keep the people alive. I'm perfectly satisfied to have them closed down."

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES SHOW INDIAN WORK

Fine Workmanship Characterizes Baskets Made by Natives—Well Exhibit Interesting

One of the sections at the exhibition which is attracting a great deal of attention is that arranged upstairs in the Women's Building where the exhibits of the Women's Institutes showing some of the beautiful work done by the Indians at Nautley, Port Fraser. Through the medium of the institutes this clever basketmaking is being brought to the attention of the public and the baskets which may be used for potted plants, waste paper baskets, the hand-woven and embroidered gauntlets, moccasins, caps and handbags show good designing and fine workmanship. The simplicity of the Indian's baskets is their chief attraction and the color is particularly pleasing to the eye.

VARIETY OF QUILTS

Near the Indian exhibit are some beautiful patchwork quilts, some of which are really old ones and very much more attractive in design than the more sophisticated and modern piecing and design, which is hardly adapted to old-fashioned work. One of the quilts is made from 2,400 pieces intricately "patched" together.

The need for instruction regarding color combination and appropriate design is most noticeable, and the Women's Institute is making this a feature of its instructional work. The members are also devoting a good deal of attention to the making of comforters, which are filled with B.C. wool, and which are delightfully warm and light. Approximately three pounds of wool are required for a wool-filled comforter.

FURS SHOWN

An increasing demand for locally grown rabbit and other skins has been of encouragement to the growers during the past year, and the exhibit bears evidence of some fine skins and useful furs as well as a number of beautiful coats. Mrs. E. P. Beasley, who is exhibiting some of her work, has several examples of made-up skins, the fur moccasins, prawn covers, neckpieces, and collar and cuffs sets being particularly admired.

Mrs. Arnold is attracting attention with her exhibition of carding the soft-fleece Angora wool, which is locally grown and some very beautiful garments for babies' wear are being shown. Angora wool is in great demand at the present time and for scarves, sweaters and shawls it is treasured for softness and beauty.

Siggerid voiced the thanks of the society to Mrs. Fletcher and the speaker of the afternoon. The offering showed a generous amount contributed to the funds of the society. A dainty and delicious tea was served from the Summer house by a committee convened by Mrs. Whitelaw. Everyone felt that worship and inspiration and pleasure had been delightfully mingled, and the opportunity of meeting the charming hostess and enjoying the beauty of her home and spacious lawn was much appreciated.

Thinks Registration Of Unemployed Would Not Be Much Value

VANCOUVER, Aug. 18.—J. H. McVety, superintendent of the Government Employment Service, considers that registration of unemployed would not be of any great value, the special civic committee which is considering the proposal reported to the council this morning.

The committee informed the council that Mr. McVety's department will not co-operate in any registration plan because of the doubtful value to be derived.

Mr. McVety has advised the Minister of Labor at Victoria that the scheme would be too costly for the results which would be obtained.

STUDENTS AWARDED I.O.D.E. BURSARIES

Miss Gladys Downes, of Oak Bay, and David Campbell, of Esquimalt Win Scholarships

Two Provincial University bursaries valued at $1,200 each were awarded yesterday by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire committee of selection for the Columbia to Gladys Downes, daughter of the late Gordon Downes, of the 1916-18 Overseas Battalion, who died from illness contracted while on service, and to David Donald Campbell, son of the late Major P. J. Campbell, who died from conditions contracted while on active service during service overseas.

Miss Downes made a brilliant record during her three years at the Oak Bay High School and in the recent matriculation examination gained 83.2 per cent. Miss Downes was fifteen years of age in April.

David Campbell, who will be fifteen years of age in September, has been a Cadet at the Esquimalt High School and his reports show splendid work, his matriculation examination marks being 79 per cent.

Memoranda containing the rules and regulations governing these bursary awards are sent to every high school in the province in December and to the parents. This year nine applications were received as follows: One from each of the following cities, Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster, and two from Esquimalt and three from Oak Bay.

RECORDS OF STUDENTS

Sixteen bursaries have now been awarded in British Columbia under the I.O.D.E. War Memorial Scheme. Fifteen are to be given in the Domination year, bringing the grand total since the inception of the work in 1920 to 111. These bursaries are granted to the sons and daughters of the men who were killed, were permanently and seriously disabled, or died from injuries received in the Great War.

It was reported at yesterday's meeting that many of the British Columbia students had since gained honors and distinction during their university careers and that all had received degrees. Miss Hilda Lobb, who received the 1929 bursary, passed her first year at Victoria College with first class honors; Miss Lettice Cartwright, 1928 student, took second class honors; Alan Macdonald, of Vancouver, awarded the 1925 bursary, has just received a good appointment in Calgary. Others hold positions in different high schools in the province.

NEW MEMBER WELCOMED

Another splendid and educationally constructing item in the War Memorial scheme is that today throughout the Dominion formal bursary and scholarship holders are working with, and helping in every way possible the development of the order's educational programme, and at yesterday's meeting the committee of selection was delighted to welcome as a new member Fred. erick Brand, B.Sc. (Oxon), who was the first to hold the provincial bursary in 1920 and who for three years held the postgraduate scholarship (overseas).

The personnel of the committee is as follows: Mrs. Tom Sampson, president of Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E.; Mrs. Andrew Wright elected member and councillor; the Bishop of Columbia, His Honor Judge Lampman, Dr. S. J. Willis, superintendent of education; R. C. Nicholas, member of the board of governors of the University of British Columbia; F. J. Brand, B.Sc. (Oxon), and Miss A. B. Cooke, provincial educational secretary and convener.

DISTRICT EXHIBITS PROVE ATTRACTION

Survey Is Judged Winner In Keenly-Contested Competition at Provincial Exhibition

One feature of the Provincial Exhibition which has aroused a great deal of interest this year, is the competition between Victoria, Richmond and Survey for the J. W. Tolmie Challenge Cup.

There has always been great rivalry between Richmond and Victoria in the district exhibit class; but, this year, Survey carried off the laurels, with Richmond second and Victoria third.

The judges, however, admit that they had their work cut out for them in making their choice, each entry having several novel and distinctive features, which made it hard to award the palm of victory to any one district.

The exhibits are at the northwest corner of the Main Building, and are arranged on shelves covered with a deep purple paper. The Victoria entry is backed by splendid sun flowers, while the other two have a background of grain and grasses.

Fruits and vegetables, both fresh and preserved, grains and agricultural seeds, forage plants, roots for stock and dairy and poultry products all have their place in these fascinating displays, which form one of the most attractive sights in the entire building.

THE ROBOT SINGS OF LOVE

THE ROBOT (singing): "O, soul of my soul, I love thee—"

BUT the Robot has no soul. And having no soul it cannot love. Small wonder the lady quires its cost.

Now, if the Robot cuts a ridiculous figure beneath a lady's balcony, why expect IT to fill intelligent theatre goers in the character of Canned Music?

Music is an emotional art. By means of it feeling may be translated into all tongues. The Robot, having no capacity for feeling, cannot produce music in a true sense.

LUMBER TARIFF BAFFLES WRITER

U.S. Schedule Said to Apply Solely to Kinder Products in Canada

DUTIES ARE RECIPROCAL

The treatment of lumber in the United States Tariff Act will carry as a reminder to Canadians that the laws of this country long since have passed the stage of primitive simplicity, says a Washington, D.C., writer.

The searcher who examines the free list of the Hawley-Smoot Act to see just what he may ship into the United States without having to add a duty to his declaration of a profitable selling price will find this language:

"Timber, hewn, sided or squared, otherwise than by sawing, and round timber, used for spars in pulling boats; sawed lumber and timber, not further manufactured than planed and tongued and grooved."

That sound encouraging to the prospective Canadian shipper. If he may send timber into the United States, duty free, up to the point, where it has been planed, tongued and grooved, there is a chance for quite a trade.

FIR AND SPRUCE DUTIABLE

If he turns back, however, to the wood schedule, he finds the same language up to the words "sawed lumber" preceding the information that such imports are to be assessed $1 per 1,000 feet. The difference between the timber on the free list and the timber on the dutiable list is that the latter is qualified by the proviso, "if of fir, spruce, pine, hemlock or larch."

That's something else again. It leaves the Canadian with the impression that the United States admits free all timber except the kinds which Canada produces.

COUNTERVAILING DUTIES

The proviso in the dutiable paragraph says that all that timber of fir, pine, etc., which is so pay $1 per 1,000 feet may come in free if it is imported from a country contiguous to Continental United States, which country admits free of duty similar timber imported from the United States.

That "contiguous country" language clearly permits Canada as plainly as if the geographical name were spoken right out loud, and the proviso means just the same as if the law had said:

"The United States will admit timber and lumber free from Canada if Canada will admit the same products free from the United States."

That, in effect, is what it does mean, so the treasury department has decided. Also, the department finds that Canada meets the conditions satisfactorily.

FLEXIBLE TARIFF

Fair enough. Are we all happy? We are not. No sooner is the ruling of the treasury department announced than the lumber men of the Northwest, who were the source of the protective duty demands, give notice that they will ask the president to increase the duties on certain classes of lumber under the flexible provision of the tariff law.

Is Fatally Injured

WINNIPEG, Aug. 19—Struck by a taxicab today, Frank Blakeney, forty-eight, of Winnipeg, was thrown from his motorcycle and fatally injured. He expired a quarter-hour later, as a physician reached the scene.

BROADCAST BRIEFS OF THE AIR

Memory Lane over the N.B.C. tomorrow night, from 6 to 9:30 o'clock, switches the setting in the second act from Goshen Centre to the Chicago World's Fair of 1893. Buffer in the play listeners will be given an insight into Abner Silcum's troubles in running the box factory during the absence of Silas Smithers. His problems are edited by Murial de Saulle. The programme will be heard over N.B.C. stations, KGO, Oakland, and KGW, Portland.

A medley of folk songs and dances, illustrating the abandon of gypsy music, will be featured by Emery Deutsch and his Columbia orchestra during their programme at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening over stations KVI, Seattle, and KGO, Seattle, of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

With the heart of man as its central theme, a Standard Symphony Hour concert, conducted by Michel Piastro, will be broadcast over the N.B.C. network between 8:45 and 9:45 o'clock tomorrow evening. Two movements from Tchaikovsky's great and universally loved "Patetic Symphony" are scheduled, as well as the beautiful and moving "Dreams of Love," by Liszt. KGMO will carry the programme for local listeners.

Bringing to listeners works seldom heard in arrangements for a double mixed quartet, the Pacific National Singers will sing for B.C. auditors tomorrow night from 10 to 10:30 o'clock over stations KGO, Oakland, and KFI, Los Angeles.

NEW TROLLEY SYSTEM FOR C.B.S. APPARATUS

New Device Is Very Handy in Studios and Is Great Time Saver

A trolley system whereby microphones may be moved to any part of a studio has been designed and installed in the World Broadcasting Studio, New York, by Edwin K. Cohan, technical director of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

It consists of two nets of wire drawn tracks provided with pulleys and operating cables, and the entire contrivance is attached to the studio ceiling. It so arranged that microphones suspended from the pulleys may be raised and lowered or shifted into any spot desired by the operating engineer. Control cords for all microphones are operated from a position in the operator's observation booth.

By its use the control operator may try every possible microphone position, while the production man varies the cords of the system, all of which may now be done within a few minutes, thus delaying the playing of one number. Heretofore, it has been necessary to move the microphone and its bulky stand from point to point, necessitating tedious hours of the cut and try method. The system operates noiselessly, and microphones may be shifted at will while a programme is in progress with no sound reaching the control panels. The device has been so successful that it will soon be part of the equipment of each large studio in WABC, the Columbia Broadcasting System's headquarters.

British Columbia Products Preferred By Scottish Buyers

VANCOUVER, Aug. 18—There is a definite preference in the British Isles in favor of Canadian products, in the opinion of Major G. E. Johnson, Canadian Trade Commissioner for Scotland and Ireland, who arrived here yesterday.

Major Johnson, who has been at his present post for four years, says that British Columbia canned salmon and apples find a ready market with consumers, while builders and others show a definite preference for Canada's timber products.

"Scottish builders say that Douglas fir from British Columbia is the best value in wood from the standpoint of price and quality," he declared. "One boatbuilder told me, however, that he would like to see lumber cut in British Columbia used in the boat-building industry."

British Columbia varieties of apples are very popular, as are all other Canadian apples, Major Johnson said.

In Glasgow the observance of "Canada Week" last year brought out a final statement for Canadian trade relations, continued the commissioner, and this year's display in the Empire Marketing Board shop has created great interest.

SLUMP IN EXCHANGE FORCES ACTION BY SPANISH MINISTRY

MADRID, Spain, Aug. 19.—Political and financial circles here are much alarmed by the depreciation of the peseta, which opened yesterday at 4.80 to the dollar, could be had later to 5.24.

Premier D'Amaso Berenguer is in Madrid after a surprise return from a holiday in Switzerland. Before he had a long interview concerning the falling currency with King Alfonso, with the assistance of Manuel Argelles, Finance Minister, who accompanied the Cabinet chief to the capital.

Premier Berenguer exchanged views with several ministers, but refused to make a statement to the press, except to say that a Cabinet meeting was to be called today to consider measures to protect the currency.

"Big Ben," London's famous clock, was tested on 288 days in the year ending April 30, and on only twenty-one days did it show an error of more than a second, the maximum being 1.4 seconds.

WOMAN STILL LIVING AFTER TWELVE DAYS ARTIFICIAL BREATHING

STROMBURG, Neb., Aug. 19.—Anita Hollister still lived today after twelve days of artificial respiration.

Her lung muscles, deadened by infantile paralysis had regained some of the vigor and last night she could breathe for a minute at a time without the help of an attendant. Dr. C. L. Anderson, the attending physician, said he believed she would live.

Nurses and relatives have been at her bedside constantly since she was stricken with the malady almost two weeks ago. Using the methods employed to resuscitate half drowned persons, they forced air in and out of her lungs constantly. They needed to apply only gentle pressure with their hands recently, Dr. Anderson said and so the patient was not injured.

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho, Aug. 19.—E. R. Randall, twenty-five, Saskatoon, Sask., motor cyclist, who was hit by an automobile, died of his injuries yesterday. The driver of the car was not known.

Randall told a motorist who found him in a ditch, that the driver of the car did not stop. The body will be taken to Saskatoon.

My cousin came down from the city one day.
My pack she was a scream!
She asked me how long we whipped the cow
To make it give whipped cream!

LILLIAN PALMER WINS TWO FIRSTS IN FINE DISPLAY

Captures 60 and 100-Metre Intermediate Finals—Mainland Girls' Relay Team Shows Way in Senior Event—Ethel Catherwood Cops High Jump and Javelin Throw

English Girl First in 100-Metre Swim; London Eight-Oared Crew Victorious

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 19.—A crowded programme of field and track events for championships among Canadian women held the attention of 10,000 spectators in Hamilton's Civic Stadium this afternoon.

Double honors today went to Mrs. Myrtle Cook McGowan, of Montreal, in the 50 and 60-metre events; to Miss Ethel Catherwood, Canada's premier jumper, in the running high jump and the javelin throw, and to Miss Lillian Palmer, of Vancouver, in the 60 and 100-metre intermediate finals.

The Vancouver girl figured prominently as well in the victory of the commerce girls of that city, who captured the 400 metres relay senior. Running the anchor leg, she held a lead to beat out Mrs. McGowan, although the Montreal sprinter cut down the margin in a great effort to overhaul Vancouver's flyer. Miss Palmer had a three-yard lead at the finish.

In both the senior sprint events, Rona Grosse O'Neill, of Toronto women, and Kay Griffiths, of Canadian women, Toronto, finished in second and third places, respectively, behind Mrs. McGowan.

MISSES RECORD

Following her triumph in the running high jump, Ethel Catherwood, after winning with a leap of 5 feet 2 inches attempted to establish a new Canadian record.

The former Saskatoon lass holds the present mark of 5 feet 3 inches, but, she failed to clear the bar when set, six eighth of an inch above the mark.

Two teammates of Miss Catherwood, wearing the colors of the Parkside Women's Athletic Club, of Toronto, scored in the 100-metre hurdles and the 300-metre sprint. Miss F. Bell took first place in the former, and Miss E. Cramer was winner in the sprint. Both were senior events.

Two champions from Northern Ontario towns were crowned today. Miss Irene Storey, of Allandale, outstripped all opponents in the 60-metre junior final, while Miss M. Blumen, of Orillia, led in the discus put with a score of 33 feet 1-4 inches. Title winners in the intermediate and junior running high jump events, were respectively in Misses K. Carter, of Parkdale Club, Toronto, and K. Miller, of the Hamilton Olympic Club.

Vancouver Commerce Girls uncovered another champion in the person of Miss Jean Thompson, who captured the discus throw for junior girls. The intermediate winner in this event was Miss A. Pike, of Parkdale women, and the same Toronto club made it a double win, with Miss O. Morrison's throw in the senior discus event, and were second both second and third places as well.

Parkdale put up their winning performances with a victory in the intermediate 400-metre relay, with Miss G. Whitelock holding a safe lead as their anchor runner. Only one other team competed, the Calgadian women of Toronto.

ENGLISH GIRL SHINES

Flashing through the shimmering green waters of the municipal bathing pool (sorry, I mean a tiny English girl, Joyce Cooper, not a new Canadian record in the women's 100-yard free style event. Miss Cooper negotiated the distance in 67 seconds flat, but was forced all the way by Miss Nesbitt, Marjorie, Ellen King, who was second a few inches back. Valerie Davis, of Wales, was third, and Marjorie Linton, Toronto, fourth.

Miss O. Whitesett, South Africa, displayed beautiful form in the women's springboard diving final to win with a point total of 89.1. Doris Cyfrie, Toronto, was second with 88.7, Molly Baily, Toronto, third, 88.7, and Miss Edna McCormack, Toronto, fourth with 82.3.

The first event of the evening, the 800-yard men's relay, went to the Canadian team by a narrow margin. Bermuda was scratched, leaving Canada to fight it out with England. Only two seconds separated the last man, Wagstaff, of England and Thompson, of Canada, at the finishing line.

One of the outstanding performances of the night came in the 500-yard men's free style event. Ryan, of Australia, swam a marvelous race to win, with Bridson, New Zealand, second. Sewell were second for Canada.

The highlight was the gallant fight of Georgia Burleigh, sixteen-year-old Toronto lass, who placed third in the event. The youngster, of diminutive build and seemingly too small to be competing against big husky rivals, not only placed "in the money," but for three-quarters of the distance gave the two leaders a lot to worry about.

Munro Bourne, Bert Gibson, George Bright and Jim Thompson, the Canadian team, led all the way to the final pace of the 800-yard relay. Wagstaff, England, took the anchor position, but Thompson managed to open up a two-yard gap at the finish, giving Canada the victory.

Strong-armed oarsmen from the London Club, England, brawny men of the little British isle, who combined into the smallest rowing machine ever to drive through the squally waters of Hamilton Bay, became the Empire's greatest eight-oared crew as they settled down to Hamilton.

Eight black-garbed sons of faraway New Zealand, who have journeyed half way around the globe for this single race with the Empire's rowing elite, dashed across the line three-quarters of a length behind the English boat. Five lengths of open water separated the Canadian crew from the other side of the world and Canada's undisputed champ, Lehanders, of Hamilton.

Thirty thousand people who milled along the west heights above the bay empire, cheered from big and small craft in the water and roared down approved on Britain's victory, witnessed the race.

CANADA OUTPLACED

Canada never had a chance with the two experienced visiting crews. The Canuck boat trailed by a full length before the quarter-mile point was reached. Thereafter the battle was in the grip of New Zealand and England. The Britons came into the sprint area, a quarter-mile from home, with nearly a length lead. They drove the flimsy shell down to the finish line with quick deep strokes that the New Zealanders could not hold with their energizing cuts.

Winnipeg's sensational doubles crew a few minutes before had recorded the only distinctly international triumph of the regatta. Elwood Sode and his cousin-partner, Bob Richards, had taken hold of two Philadelphia couples in the international senior double sculls for Canada's outstanding victory. Pace ahead of their American rivals, the Winnipeg duo drove their shell over the finish three lengths in front of the Bachelor Barge Club team of Gilmore and Smith.

ENGLAND AGAIN

Lawn bowlers from England today shot their way back into prominence for British Empire rink honors with a one-sided victory over New Zealand. The score was 20 to 9.

The Britons came back with two wins during the day after having had their opening pounds yesterday to Canada. The Canuck four, skipped by Harry Allen, of Hamilton, accounted for South Africa today by 26 to 14. The Allen rink was favored to capture the rinks event.

Bermuda, despite the loss of the strongest rinks in the Empire tournament, dropped their second straight game to South Africa, 18 to 12. They were beaten by Canada in the morning.

Arthur E. Reid, who last year came to the East and secured the pick of Dominion lawn honors, has his challenge for British Empire championship definitely blocked in a fine game rally by New Zealand's individual champion. The Vancouver star, an easy victim yesterday to the deadly shots of a South African opponent, lost a commanding lead early as W. Fielding staged a remarkable comeback to win on the twenty-eighth end.

VICTORIA MAN CREATES NEW FISHING MARK

J. D. Inverarity Makes Great Catch at Campbell River

USES LIGHT TACKLE IN 36-POUND CATCH

Above is pictured J. D. Inverarity with the thirty-six-pound Tyee salmon, which he caught in Campbell River, Saturday. It is believed to be a record for British Columbia on such tackle.

Requiring some clever fishing science and at the same time exciting sport, it is believed to be a new record in British Columbia, J. D. Inverarity, of Victoria, hooked and landed a clean run tyee salmon, weighing thirty-six pounds in thirty-five minutes, recently at the popular Tyee-Island Summer resort.

Inverarity's claim to the record is due to the fact that he was using a four-and-a-half-ounce split cane trout rod with fresh reel, holding only 150 feet of trout line, and a minimum leader which is one-ounce weight. With this light fishing paraphernalia the Victoria's catch is considered remarkable and he had great difficulty in interest in Island sporting circles.

Inverarity was with A. O. Jerry Bolton, assistant director of the University School, Mount Tolmie, when he landed the fighting tyee.

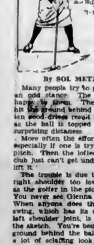
Stance Important for Good Drives



BY SOL METZGER

Many golfers play golf at war with an odd stance. The result is not happy, by golf. They consistently hit the ground behind the ball. Or, into good fortune, they hit it ahead as the ball is topped and rolls for surprising distance.

More often the effort is a bungle, especially if one is trying to play a pitch. Then the infield face of the club has cut a gash under the ball to lift it.

The trouble is due to putting the right shoulder too low at address as the golfer in the picture is doing. You never see Glenna Collett do it. When anyone does the act of the swing, which has its centre in the left shoulder joint, is as shown in the sketch. You're bound to hit the ground behind the ball. If you do a lot of scalping look to this as a cause, as "Long Jim" Barnes has so often pointed out. Next—correct shoulder position.

Bob Morrison Will Have Strong Squad Seeking His Crown

Defending Champion Faces Stiff Opposition as Entries Pour in for 1930 Titular Event—Uplands Course is Excellent Condition

With the fairways and greens in wonderful condition the city golf championship will get under way on Sunday with the thirty-six-hole qualifying round at the Uplands Golf Club.

One of the largest and strongest competitive fields in the history of the tournament is expected to tee off after the bible at present adorning the brow of Bob Morrison, of the Uplands Golf Club. Entries must be in the hands of John Caven, secretary of the Uplands club, by Friday evening at 6 o'clock. The course will be open to competitors for practice on Friday.

The first and second rounds of the meet will be played on August 30, quarter and semi-finals on August 31, and the champion will ascend his throne on September 1, Labor Day, following the thirty-six-hole finals. Driving, putting, approaching and mixed foursomes competitions will be carried out in conjunction with the tourney.

According to Secretary Caven, entries are pouring in fast and when the contingent is let loose for the medal round some fine golf will undoubtedly be exploded, as each club in the city is sending forth its best bets with hopes of returning with the crown.

With Morrison playing on his home course, he will go to the starting post a strong favorite to repeat his performance of twelve months ago. He gained the title last year at the Oak Bay layout by defeating Harold Lineham, Colwood ace, in the finals, 7 and 6.

Four club champions, Harold Brynjolfson, Uplands; Norman Wallace, Colwood; Willard Wills, Macaulay, and Art Beasley, Victoria, are expected to be pure starters and all may have something to say regarding the wherealouts of the title for 1930. Heavyweight Grapplers to Appear in Return Go at Tillicum Gymnasium

"ROCKY" BROOKS IN SEMI-WIND-UP SHOT

Anxious to gain back the prestige he lost here in his last appearance, when he went down to defeat at the hands of the fast and rugged Paul Wilkins, Chicago grappler, Bob Kruse, of Portland, is coming back on Saturday to expose Wilkins in a return bathe. The bout is the main event of Promoter Fred Richardson's presentation at the Tillicum gymnasium. "Rocky" Brooks, local wrestler, will be back on the card in the semi-wind-up shot against an opponent yet to be named.

Wilkins has the distinction of being the only man, with the exception of "Dynamite" Ora Rosenberg, world's champion, and Ed. "Strangler" Lewis, former titleholder, to defeat Kruse in a local ring. On Saturday night the youthful Portlander will be in there fighting to reverse the nod.

ACTION ON CLOSING OF COURSES DEFERRED

Vancouver Police Commission Will Make Decision Monday or Sunday Closing

VANCOUVER, Aug. 19.—With the exception by Mayor W. H. Malkin that minibaum golf course owners "submit to public opinion" and close their courses Sunday, the police commission, at a special meeting this morning, decided to defer till Monday any action regarding Sunday play.

"What's wrong with Sunday golf on these miniature courses?" asked J. W. deB. Farris, K.C., counsel for the proprietors. He described the game as clean, healthy recreation.

"Don't think that you are going to make people go to church by driving them off the miniature golf courses," he declared. "They won't go. You should consider what the 2,000 people who play miniature golf on Sundays would be doing if they were not allowed on the courses.

"How does this particular activity measure up to the several standing orders of permitted Sunday activity?" asked counsel. "That should be the test. I submit that it doesn't differ materially from the other items of Sunday diversion which are allowed—bathing, motoring and so on."

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

The Four-Year-Old Maharajah of Jaipur was married at the wedding of the kind I celebrated during my sojourn at Jaipur were quite customary in India until very recently. The English Government has lately instituted some energetic measures to stamp out this abuse, which is highly prejudicial to the welfare of India. I drew the bride from nature, immediately after the ceremony. The age of the groom was six years. The "marriage" remains a mere formality until the children reach the age of eleven years.

Kaar, Famous French Horse, Was $336,000—Kaar, the most famous of the French running horses, heads the list of all equine winners. His total is in excess of $320,000, won in eleven races. The American Zev is second on the list with a total of $300,000 won in twenty-three races.

Marking the conclusion of many months faithful training, forty-three mermaids are expected to take the plunge at the start about noon Friday, providing the water had a temperature of 58 degrees or better four hours prior to starting time. If the water is under the stipulated temperature the swim will be postponed.

Large Prices Paid In Most Events at Popular Enclosure

Several Double-Barreled Odds Are Hoisted Against Winning Numbers—Billy Skidd Returns Best Figures—Swift Cop Places to Reward $39

Those who went looking for longshots, after Wavsina's sensational price at Sunday, yesterday at the Willows' race track had plenty of direction offered to them during the seven-event programme, and those who managed to get a couple of winners were well rewarded for their afternoon. Lay in five events auditors claim and some bets on our figures were posted against their win numbers.

Billy Skidd returned the longest straight odds when he skidded home in the second event to have $27.80 posted against his number. Fangold ran him a close second when he won the fourth event to reward the fortunate ones with $18.25 for a nose dueat. Another handsome price was paid by Spear Shot, who capped the sixth race and paid $25.50 for a nose pastehoard. Jack Beanan paid another ridiculous sum when $16 was hoisted against his number, but the longest odds of the day was left for a place horse. Swift Cop netted $39 in the fourth.

Chaister Boy and Dan Malory provided the best finish of the day when the latter got a nose decision. Several other good races were seen by a large crowd, the majority of whom were women.

Italians led the riders, bringing home two winners and a place.

CHATTER BOYS WINS

Jockey Crabtree rode through the favorite Chatter Boy home a winner in the first race over five and a half furlongs. Dan Malory was second and Manager Beth third. The latter, always in close quarters, took charge at the head of the stretch, and nearly had spoiled the determined challenge of Dan Malory. The latter set the early pace. Manager Beth was a good third over Jack Jury, Prince Ced and Leuram, who carried quite a lot of money, were never contenders.

Coming through on the rail on the home stretch, Billy Skidd, with Jockey Sporri in the saddle, handed a surprise package when the King entry headed home a winner in the second five and one-half furlong gallop. The winner was in close contention throughout, moved up when called upon and won the decision by half a length. Queen of Fraser beltered her position throughout and copped the place berth, while the old favorite, Ilona, took the show berth. The latter set the pace for a half furlong and a fourth after closing strongly. Valley Joe, the favorite, was never a contender. The winner paid $18 straight.

JACK BEANAN SURPRISES

Jack Beanan sprung another surprise when he captured the third race over five furlongs by a neck from the favorite, Bee Somers, in a great stretch drive. Bee Somers, at Jack Beanan raced like a team practically all the way and the latter was close for a half, but was pinched at the top of the last stretch. Jack Beanan returned $16 straight.

Still another surprise was registered in the fourth race when Jockey Chipping brought Pangold home a good winner. The winner, always well up, went on top at the head of the home stretch to win by a length. Swift Cop, another outsider, took the place slot, and Shasta third berth. American Mecca was in front until the turn for home, but wilted. Joe Co was a red hot favorite, but never looked like a winner. Jack Elsworth, second choice, threw Jockey De Pord twice before the barrier was going and then refused to break. De Pord showed great gameness in hanging onto his mount when thrown, and was given a big hand by the crowd.

YOUNG DOYLE SHOWS SPEED

Tommy Doyle, with Swift doing the honours, took $ lightning decision from Wickawack in the fifth race over a mile. Galloping Joe was third. Tommy Doyle and Wickawack fought it out the whole route numerous like a team, and were in a class by themselves. Galloping Joe was a good third. Frank Oakley was fourth.

Spear Shot won his second straight out and gave form followers another cash ticket in the sixth race over a mile and seventy yards. Shasta Lily was second, a length behind the winner, and Paved Way third. Spear Shot was always close behind the leader and gaining at the finish.

Lily was a good second while Paved Way fought it out with the second choice, Dessiter, to capture show money by a head. Sandsweept, the favorite, was never in danger after getting a ball.

The public choice, Wikup Bionson, proved to be the best in the sixth race and won going away. Kingsman was second and Cullacan third. The winner came along on the outside on the home stretch and was never in danger after that. Kingsman set the pace until Wikup Bionson picked him up. Cullacan was always close. Trade Wind tired.

At The Playhouses

COLUMBIA The most popular THEATRE mystery story of Gaston Leroux, noted French master of weird stories, has been made into a super dialogue screen drama by Universal. It is "The Phantom of the Opera," now being shown at the Columbia. The story, with Lon Chaney as the star. Much of the elaborate drama is shown in full color effects.

COLISEUM "Devil's Harbor," now THEATRE at the Coliseum Theatre, unfolds the tender romance of a temperamental lad who falls in love with the man she has plotted to ruin. Set in the colorful atmosphere of a Caribbean coast town overrun by greedy pearl traders, soldiers of fortune, fugitives and near-do-wells, "Devil's Harbor" offers Lupe Velez the most colorful vehicle of her short but eventful career.

PLAYHOUSE "A Royal Romance," THEATRE showing today at the Playhouse Theatre, is a diverting bit of romantic spectacle. The story is one of those delightfully improbable affairs. However, it is just human enough to play upon your heartstrings, even while your sides ache with laughter at the hilariously funny situations.

CAPITOL One of the most un- THEATRE usual segregations of male actors in the history of motion pictures supports Richard Barthelmess, First National-Vitaphone star, in "The Dawn Patrol," at the Capitol Theatre all this week. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Neil Hamilton, Gardner James and two English actors take important parts in this Barthelmess production. The most important of the lesser roles is played by William Janney, whom First National-Vitaphone placed under contract after seeing his splendid work in "The Dawn Patrol."

DOMINION "The Lady of Scan- THEATRE dal," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new drama of modern society, will close its run today at the Dominion Theatre. The new picture has a notable cast headed by Miss Chatterton as the actress who ignites London aristocracy, and Basil Rathbone, Ralph Bellamy, Nance O'Neil, Herbert Bunston, Moon Carroll, Herbert Bolder, Cyril Chadwick, Effie Ellsler, Edgar Norton and others appear.

The Spotlight

BY GRANTLAND RICE

RANKING THE HEAVYWEIGHTS

There are now just four heavyweights who figure in any way so far as the heavyweight situation is concerned. They are Max Schmeling, Young Stribling, Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera.

It isn't what you would call an impressive list. There hasn't been a consistent performer in the lot except Carnera, and he could hardly keep from being consistent against the puff balls thrown his way. The five they happen to be the only four in the spotlight. Chuvalo can hardly be included in this collection since in his last three appearances he's done or less, he was outpointed by Phil Scott and by Johnny Risko. This doesn't give the South American much to work on. He may be the best of the lot, but he hasn't shown it.

Schmeling, the champion through a foul, looked to be the worst of the lot in his last appearance. But he got the big break in the big spot and that is about all any one needs to arrive. It is practically like winning a championship through default.

Sharkey has drawn four stabs at the big title, and he is now farther away than he was at the start. Just after he had eaten Godfrey, Wills and Maloney, Stribling has had the easiest and largest sport and has to be ranked next to Schmeling. He is now closer to the title than Sharkey is. Carnera is still the big mystery—possibly the best or the worst fighter of them all. But he is at least the biggest drawing card, the main money man at the gate. Thrown in against a first class opponent he will outdraw any of the others by a pot full of gold. There are still many who believe Carnera can drawn up the ish without getting up a perspiration. The meeting between Blakney and Campolo will be just a heavyweight fight, proving nothing in any direction. Either can win or lose without proving anything. The two main eliminations now in sight must take care of Stribling and Carnera. They may be flops. But they can't duplicate the others to any great extent, including Max Schmeling, the champion.

DRAWING POWER

Carnera could be matched with Schmeling, Stribling and Sharkey and outdraw any other match that might be made by 25 per cent. He is at least something the crowd likes to watch—and the crowd isn't brought up about any of the others. They don't have anything in too much foul fights, dancing contests and wrestling matches.

It is possible that any one of the trio might knock out Carnera. But here is where the big money is—and there isn't any big money anywhere else.

THE NEXT MOVE

It is about time some of these heavyweights were proving something without tagging the public again. They all owe the public a lot of money, which probably has given their fault as long as the public insists on building up the racket last. So far there isn't one who has shown enough to ask more than 50 per cent of the money. They have been putting on $2 and $3 fights for eight and ten times this amount, and if they are not willing to prove that they have improved enough to demand more items may be a possible reveal.

The Cube have until the last day of August to build up their lead. After that they move out upon the road, while the Giants and Dodgers finish at home through most of September. Under these conditions the Cubs will need a lead of three or four games to be reasonably safe —or fairly safe.

The Cub-Giant series this week may sell a big part of the story. Whatever the final finish, Cub supporters have been more afraid of the Giants than the Dodgers. They may be all damp in this reckoning, but this is the way they have felt. If the Cubs can handle the Giants as they handled the Dodgers, they will be pretty well out in the open with something better than an even chance. But if they start skidding in this New York series they will be in trouble the rest of the way.

It is quite apparent by now that Hack Wilson has no idea of giving up his pursuit of Babe Ruth. Hack is going to keep on hitting his home runs and let the Babe's fall where they may. He will be the first to lift the National League home run record above fifty. And he may be the first in a long time to lead Ruth past the wire.

"You are always writing about the left hand in golf," suggests H. P. "I had an idea golf is a two-handed game."

It is. But most golfers don't seem to think so. They play it as a right-handed game where the left merely gets in the way. No one has to worry much about the use of the left hand. But to the average golfer the left is merely a handicap. He must learn to start the club back with the left and to start the down swing with the left in main control, doing that he will have the hands of a golf swing. It will do no harm if any managing a club with the left hand alone—in order to get the feel of the hand swing. Without a firm left hand and left wrist and left arm to hit against there is no guiding factor in any way—no feeling of control.

Gyros Capture Softball Honors From Rotarians

Gyros' softball team captured the Interservice clubs championship by taking the final game of the play-off series last evening at the Beacon Hill grounds by defeating the Rotary Club, 10-6. Up to last night's game the clubs were deadlocked with one game each, but Stan Moore pitched the Gyros to the title to settle the issue. Jack McKay tossed for the Rotarians.

WOMEN'S CHAMP TO BE CROWNED IN MEET TODAY

Mildred Phillipsen to Battle Mrs. Erickson for J.B.A.A. Tennis Title

DANCE TO WIND UP TOURNEY TOMORROW

Mildred Phillipsen, Equimalt women's singles champion, will step on the courts this afternoon in quest of her second title of the season, when she faces Mrs. R. Erickson in the finals for the women's singles championship of the J.B.A.A. Tennis Club. With both players wielding deadly rackets throughout the meet, some great tennis is expected before the queen is crowned.

Miss Phillipsen worked her way to the final round by defeating Biddy Boyce after one of the hardest three-set matches of the tourney. The winner won the first set, 6-2; lost the second, 3-7; but spurted through the final session after exploiting brilliant tennis, 6-3.

Mrs. Thomas partnered with Bill Erickson will meet Biddy Boyce and Cliff Margison for the mixed doubles crown. The former pair ousted Mrs. Erickson and Allen Bain in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, while the latter couple downed Vivian Wilsey and Dave Bain, 7-5, 6-2. Miss Wilsey and Bain played excellently but could not cope with their opponents' accurate placements.

Elsie Burns showed up brilliantly to put out Miss Coy in the women's consolation, while Scott upset the dope by beating Coppinger.

Tomorrow evening the grand finale of the meet will be held with the presentation of trophies at a dance to be held at the club-house. Results:

CANADIAN CANOEISTS DEFEAT AMERICANS

Dominion Representatives Clock Up Seventy-Nine Points to Thirty-Three at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 19.—Canada stands supreme in the realm of paddling. Today, wearers of the Maple Leaf completely outclassed the best the United States could offer in the International Canoe Regatta, staged on the rolling waters of Burlington Bay and decorated the Americans by the overwhelming total of 79 points to 33.

In the nine-men war canoe events and double-blade races, innovations which the Americans sponsored, Canadian crews matched stroke for stroke with the crews from across the line.

For hours and hours the regatta dragged along, with long delays frequent. At one time it was temporarily postponed when a rainstorm swept across the bay, but most of the delays were caused by the fact that paddlers competed in many events.

LONDON NEWSPAPER LAUDS BIG GAMES

Daily Express Says Sports Producing New Era of Inter-Empire Relationship

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The Empire games now being held at Hamilton, Ontario, will be by any standard the last assemblage of its kind, says The Daily Express today.

The Express points to the splendid sport the games are producing and above all the fine, clean spirit in which the events are being contested. The paper believes the games begin a new era of inter-Empire relationships.

"What British athete, what British subject anywhere would not sooner participate in, and witness an imperial sporting festival of this kind than become mixed up in the bad blood and dubious standards and practices that mark the Olympic games?"

The Beaverbrook organ asks, and concludes: "International relations are done anything rather than make nations like each other. Improbable as sport contests between men and women of British stock and owning a common loyalty, will be all for the good of athletics and all for the good of the Empire."

OAK BAY WOMEN WILL PLAY PAR ROUND ON FRIDAY

SOUND AUCTION and CONTRACT
by WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD
"The World's Greatest Authority"

A Whale-Hearted Effort Will Often Save an Apparently Hopeless Situation

East has a very hard hand to open To lead away from a King, particularly when the suit is long, generally involves the loss of a trick—hence the opening of a Heart is advisable Where opponents bidding has been so strong, it does not appear desirable to open a three-card Diamond suit headed by the Q-J, and the two-card Club suit, being the Queen, appears worse. Although he has the King of Spades, it is likely that North and South have the rest of the honors, and that if South's hand contains the Ace, the King is lost anyway; while if North holds the Ace the King cannot be shut out, for he holds three Spades. Accordingly he opens the four of Spades. South plays the three, West the nine, and North takes the trick with the ten.

North cannot tell whether or not East actually held three Spades to the King originally, but the indications are that he did. Granting such to be the fact, it would appear that he must lose one Spade trick, one Heart trick and two Club tricks unless East should happen to hold both the Ace and Queen of Clubs.

Since a Heart finesse must be taken in time, he takes it now so that he may assure himself as to the Spade situation. Accordingly he leads the two of Hearts and takes the trick in Dummy with the Ace. He now leads the five of Spades, to which West fails to follow suit.

He takes a trick with the Ace and leads a small Club. East plays a nine. The Jack is played from Dummy and West takes the trick with the Ace.

West now leads a small Diamond to a possible K-J or Q-J in East's hand.

With the idea of stripping the hand, North leads the King with the King and leads another Club. This is taken with the King in Dummy. A small Club is led from Dummy, which is taken by the ten of West's hand. West leads another Diamond, which South takes with the Ace in Dummy. Dummy leads the ten of Diamonds, which North trumps. A small trump now puts East in the lead and he is obliged to lead away from his King of Hearts.

Of course, had North known that West held the ten and nine of Hearts alone, his problem would have been easy, but although such knowledge he must play the hand so as to get some assistance from the adversaries.

Auction Bidding

	1st Rd.	2nd Rd.
South	1 N.T.	Pass
West	Pass	Pass
North	2♣	Pass
East	Pass	Pass

We often see hands with which, though the bidding is sound, making contract or game is very doubtful.

As in the above deal, this situation is likely to arise where a border-line take-out of a No-Trump has been made with a suit for which the No-Trump bidder holds exceptional support.

The above deal, where one of the adversaries held a tw-outer, is an example.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING

Contract: South opens the bidding with one No-Trump and West passes. North holds 3♠, quick tricks and a distribution which might be well fitted for the No-Trump bid, but since 1½ quick tricks are held in five-card Spade suit and there is no honor held in Clubs, he deems it better to bid two Spades than to give an immediate assist to the No-Trump. East passes and South bids four Spades. His hand is so strong that he is afraid that North cannot rebid. Though he has no distributional value in support of the Spade bid as far as ability to ruff is concerned, he has four Spades, which in itself should help out North's Spade suit. This bid of four Spades concludes the bidding.

Auction: South bids one No-Trump. West passes and North bids two Spades, concluding the bidding

Bulls Attempt to Start Forward Price Movement; Most of Advance Is Lost

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Encouraged by the resistance to bear selling displayed by the market in recent sessions, professional operators who were bullish by inclination and temperament, launched a new bull campaign in today's stock market, but found traders generally unwilling to follow the advance for more than a quick turn.

Although the market rose vigorously during the major part of the day, recording extreme gains of 2 to 9 points in most of the more prominent issues, there was a rush to take profits at the higher levels, and much of the advance was lost before the close, although several shares were up 3 to 4 net.

The price index of ninety leading stocks gained only 1.3-5 points, but that was enough to cancel the meagre net losses of the last two sessions and place the index a fraction above the level reached in Friday's brisk rally. Total sales aggregated 1,861,797 shares, about 150,000 more than yesterday.

U.S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, Radio, International Harvester and Johns-Manville rose 2 points or more, only to lose much of their gains, closing from fractions to a point higher.

Vanadium was also turned over in large volume, rising about 4 points it later lost more than half of its rise. Columbian Carbon, in which a Boston operation was said to have taken a long position, rose 3 points only to lose all but a point of its gain.

Chec rose 4, then reacted to close only 2-3-4 higher. Allied Chemical gained 3 and was up 6 at the close.

Tobacco were strong for a time, but American Tobacco B, after gaining, slumped back again. Others maintained their gains fairly well, as did some of the rails. North American, New York Central and New Haven closed about 2 points higher. Eastman Kodak was a firm feature and closed 3 points at the top. Fox Film, rose 3 points on the earnings statement, wiping out Monday's entire loss. It later slipped back 1-2-3 from the top.

In the foreign exchanges, sterling cables staged 1-16 to 1-8 of 1-4, and the Canadian dollar lost its premium for the first time since July 8. The Brazilian milreis agaeed to a new low, while the Spanish peseta rallied.

Apparently domestic bonds were extensively accumulated today, with best gains by railroad and industrial issues. Although there was a slightly firmer tendency in outside call money, there was no slackening in the inquiry from institutional sources and the gains of the day carried the market to a new high for the year in the averages.

Bullish trend of equity issues carried stock privilege bonds upward. Anthracite 4 1-2s and St. Paul 5's advanced a point, and several other rail, utility and amusement issues gains also appreciated.

The market in utility issues was firm.

The movement of the industrial list was highly irregular.

Foreign issues were more active and irregular.

BANK OF ENGLAND TO ASSIST INDUSTRIES

Radical Change Made in Policies—To Act Through Two Agencies Recently Formed

Under the leadership of the Bank of England, a movement for the rationalization of British industries is going forward and has attracted the attention of financial circles over the world. The movement is looked upon in England as holding out the only hope for the recovery of Britain's industry from the depression which has afflicted it since the war. It differs added interest from the fact that it marks a radical change in the time-honored policies of the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street.

In effect, the Bank of England is "British industry" for the first time in its long and distinguished career of Canadian Pacific. The affairs of the British bank of issue to put new life into British industry are to be effected through the agency of two companies recently formed. The first of these is called the Securities Management Trust, formed, incorporated and provided with capital by the Bank of England.

The other of this company, as it has been set forth, is to assist manufacturing firms with advice and guidance, and to formulate plans for the reorganization, amalgamation and acquisition of new capital. The directorate is composed of the Governor of the Bank of England, Montagu C. Norman, and a group of eminent business men.

DEVELOPMENT COMPANY

To carry out the programme of reorganizing British industry upon a more up-to-date basis, the Bankers' Industrial Development Company has been organized, with a nominal capital of £6,000,000. Capital of this institution is divided into forty-five shares of common A stock of £100,000 par value each, and fifteen shares of common B stock, also of £100,000 par value.

All of the B shares have been subscribed for by the Securities Management Trust, through which the Bank of England directs its interest in the company. These shares carry three votes each while the A shares carry one vote each. Securities Management has, therefore, fifty percent of the voting power in Bankers' Industrial Development.

The fifty-five A shares have been subscribed for by forty-five important banks and financial houses, each one being allotted a single share. Among the institutions which have thus become participants in the promotion are Barclay's Bank, Lloyds' Bank, the Midland Bank, the National Provincial Bank, the Westminster Bank, the Governor and Company of the Bank of Scotland, Baring Brothers, Brown, Shipley & Co., Ltd., Morgan Grenfell & Co., N. M. Rothschild & Sons, J. Henry Schroder & Co. and Benjamin Newbould, Ltd. The list of the other forty-five includes virtually every important banking institution in Great Britain, and indicates the widespread participation in the movement.

PURPOSE OF THE MOVEMENT

By the "rationalization" of British industry, it is meant the establishment of industrial projects upon a modern basis. The plan includes simplification and economy of capital, consolidation of firms which would benefit from unified control, substitution of modern machinery and production methods for outmoded methods.

The problem, as it is seen by officials of the Bank of England, is one of a quite different character from ours. The British business man is traditionally hard to change. Many industrial plants in England are operating today with machinery and equipment which went out of date before the war. But since the machinery still functions and business is poor, there is a reluctance to write the old plant and substitute a new one.

EARLY ADVANCE IS WIPED OUT

Weakness in Chicago Halts Rise in Winnipeg Wheat Prices

EXPORT SALES INCREASE

(Brenham, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

WINNIPEG, Aug. 19.—The wheat market here showed a change of front during the first half of today's session, and prices, after opening 3-8 higher, continued to advance until they were 1-3-8 over the close last night. Around the noon hour weakness developed, largely in sympathy with the sharp decline in Chicago and with early buyers unloading and all the earlier gains were more than lost. There was some fairly active buying at the start, part of which was for seaboard account and partly short covering, due to Liverpool being considerably stronger than due. The demand was fairly well satisfied at the close of the first hour, after which the market turned quiet with offerings light until the liquidation set in easy.

October was somewhat stronger than the deferred months today, probably reflecting the business being done with most of the hedging in being placed in December.

Export sales announced today were placed at 1,500,000 bushels, of which the pool worked 800,000 bushels. This is the best business in over a week but does not mean a great deal.

There was no particular activity in the cash wheat affair, demand for the higher grades of which was fairly good, but there was plenty with holders offering sparingly. Cash wheat was quoted 1-8 over that the pool had decided 4c for the 1 Northern basis for Port William.

The bulk of the crop this year will be no better than 3 Northern and with the exception of No. 1 Northern, the rest of handling and freight, about 15c is what the pool members will receive as an Indian payment of the 60c payment is correct.

The corn belt in the United States received more rain the past twenty-four hours, and conditions are now said to be greatly improved as regards the corn and fodder crops. The weather in the Canadian West was clear with some light scattered showers in Saskatchewan and Alberta, with the weather closing today. Eurowean weather is somewhat improved.

Liverpool closed 3-8 to 1 1-8 higher with a commercial demand noted for wheat in evidence. The markets closed steady and erratic. Orders being 1-4 higher and December and May 1-4 to 3-8 lower respectively. Corner grain markets were erratic. There was a good upturn in prices during the early part of the day, but the bulge was not held. There was very little doing in the cash markets, only an odd car of low grade oats and barley changing hands. Flax continued dull and irregular.

One of the major unsolved problems in the utilisation of Canada's natural resources is presented by the immense body of bituminous sands in Northern Alberta, along the lower Athabasca River. Heretofore their valuable contents be extracted and marketed on a large scale, and so as to yield an adequate profit. Continuous work on this solution of the difficulties encountered is being carried on by the Alberta Research Council, and some success is reported. Professor Alan E. Cameron, secretary of the council, states that far of 99.5 per cent purity is now being produced by a process of a process developed by Dr. K. A. Clark, of the University of Alberta. This is said to be as pure as can be produced from any other known source. The pilot plant erected at a point about a mile and one-half from the railway terminus at Waterways, Alta., is producing about a barrel of tar, or 500 pounds, for each ton of bituminous sand handled.

The Canadian Westinghouse Company has closed a contract with the Algoma Steel Corporation, Limited, at Sault Ste Marie, for a revolving, synchronizable speed mill motor and a fly-wheel motor generator set, and static motor generator set and a complete ventilating equipment, including a mechanical system. The contract includes, as well, the necessary control and switching equipment, substantially in all to about $250,000.

Dominion Bridge Co. has ordered from England 2,500 tons of steel for use in the construction of the Lethbridge Bridge. Dominion Company's new hydro - electric plant, the Ontario Power Co., turns out to this, orders for steel represent a substantial share, other ways gone to Pittsburg, since Canadian Bridge, manufacturing this class of material, Powell River Company has undertaken extensive additions to its plant at Lois River, Valley Logging Company also reports indicated a great part of the damage to the crop as shown in larger percentage of barren stalks and imperfect ears, will never be reached by rain from now on. We think the market has dropped back to a point where accumulation will again be in evidence on all setbacks.

Cash followed the general trend of corn. Cash demand fair and country was strong and stubborn light.

Rye was strong early, but sold off with wheat. A good demand was reported for new crop rye.

MARKET NEWS LETTER

The market news letter of the Provincial Department of Agricultural, under date of August 18, says:

VICTORIA

Victoria's fair will be in full swing all this week. The entries are all in excess of former years and weather is ideal. Two car lots of processed strawberries, in barrels, rolled this week for St. Louis, Mo. There is one car left which is sold to a dealer in Winnipeg, Ont. No barrel stock of processed strawberries is available of the 1930 pack in Victoria. The only strawberries on hand are the one-pound carton stuff and only about 12,000 pounds of this product are available.

The following copy of wire given the latest market news from Calgary, "Ideal warm weather is making farmers anxious to start harvesting, which will be general this week. Washington shippers are making desperate efforts to secure orders. Eight representatives of different shippers in Calgary last week. Sweet cherries and raspberries through. Few beans moving on firm orders. Shippers advised to keep blackberries at home, brokers trying to get dollar per crate here, without success. Full-end season demand for Olivets and Morelos. Kootenay supplying these in fair condition. Jobbers trying to get $1.60 on fine car of California Elberta peaches arriving yesterday, but $1.50 price already established. Washington Rochester peaches not moving. Okanagan clings also slow. Washington shippers expect shortage of Bartlett crop, still hold Western Alberta price when named. Plenty of plums on market, mostly of cheap Washington varieties. First Italian prunes bought at opening price of 40c, arriving today in mixed cars from Yakima. No British Columbia Bartletts on the local market, but due tomorrow. Plenty of Washington Bartlett pears at $2.50 to $2.50 for fancy. Early apples cleaning up. First shipment of Wealthy bought expected Wednesday. Tremendous jobber competition retailers bought semi-ripe tomatoes on Saturday at $1. This price below jobbers' cost. Fair movement of cucumbers at 60 to 75c. Local garden supplying potatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, beet tetions and root vegetables below import prices."

Dips Offer Good Buying Says Whitney

(Brannan, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Whitney of Wall Street Financial Bureau says: The market continues to give a most satisfactory performance, especially in the way of its use of news items. Some time back we were in a market whose outstanding characteristic was that it was receiving bad news and going down on it. A little later we entered a period in which it continued to receive bad news, but would no longer reflect it in lower prices.

As pointed out yesterday, the next modification of this relationship between the market and its news is a condition in which a market which has built up a tolerance to bad news begins to get a much and goes up on it. Until yesterday's session we were in the second stage awaiting the appearance of something which would tell us that we were in the second stage awaiting the appearance of something which would tell us that we were ready to go into the third. This, I believe, is exactly what has happened. In the final company meetings, including the normal Tuesday influence of setbacks, has given way to the optimistic utterances of the head of the Treasury Department and an important industrial figure.

The latter's absent message of Secretary Mellon's words on the stock market and its prospects will be thankful for, and I believe that we have been afraid of a person whose rapidly thinking depression news in the last three months coincided with good news which the market, in fact McLean, has now gone.

I think, therefore, that we are just enough on the threshold of the establishment of a definite upmovement. We may have a dip as a means of purchasing stocks, with the last week's prices identical with those recommended early in the month, and which have confirmed to predictions that the market recommendations would not be characterized by any uncomfortable recession during the period they were held. I expect such a dip during today's session, probably in the closing hours, but it will be a buying point whenever it comes.

I think we can absolutely depend on September being a big month on the upside as that anything bought on weakness from now on is getting close enough to profits for all practical purposes.

Consolidated Has Interest in Sherritt-Gordon

Consolidated Mining & Smelting, in its quarterly report, which is dated, it has acquired a substantial interest in Sherritt-Gordon and that Mr. Archibald, smelters vice-president in charge of mines, is going on the board of that company.

V. L. EARDLEY-WILMOT REPORTS ON ASSAYS IN DALHOUSIE ORES

V. L. Eardley-Wilmot, of the Department of Mines, Ottawa, who recently made an examination of the Tidewater molybdenum property, Alice Arm, being developed by the Dalhousie Mining Company, Limited, sent a sample of the ore encountered in the new workings to Ottawa for assay by one of the geologists of the department. The results just received from there are very satisfactory, the percentage of mineral being consistent, with assays made from samples taken along this drift.

The company also advises that, as the last report from Superintendent McLeod, the new workings are nearly reached the 300-foot mark and are now approaching the vicinity below the old workings where the large body of molybdenite was first found.

The directors feel pleased, also, that the molybdenum from the workings recently exhibited at the Vancouver exhibition was awarded the first prize in its class.

Calgary Oil News

(Miller, Owen & Co., Ltd.)

CALGARY, Aug. 19.—Okalta No. 1, one of the pioneers of Turner Valley producers, has started to repair casing troubles which had caused its production to fall from the original 500 barrels daily to 300 barrels, according to officials. A few weeks ago the well froze off, as it has been doing for some time. Operators at first started to clean out and then decided to load advantage of the closure and adjust casing. Operations so far indicate that repairs should be possible.

Okalta No. 3 is making excellent progress in the limestone. Yesterday the last ten metres in Brittlebank Hill, which is a shale, at 4,296 feet, 358 feet from the top of the limestone. Fair gas showings have been noticed.

Okalta No. 3 has resumed drilling from the top of the limestone and yesterday was drilling thirty-seven feet in the formation at 4,790 feet.

Brittlebank No. 1 has started drilling in the Ribstone Field, according to R. O. Strasser, president of the company. The well is located in part was making hole at 200 feet after several days' drilling. The company's other two wells, which appear to be productive of good, are shut down pending future development in marketing and distributing facilities. The policy of the company, said Mr. Strasser, is "to get the production."

With two wells producing and three drilling, Mercury is preparing another site for an operation. Rigging is practically completed and ready for drilling gear. It is expected that operations will wait for tools from No. 3, where they will be kept for a month or so to insure against loss of production from freezing of.

Mercury No. 1 actually started to make new hole yesterday, drilling on five feet from 4,285 feet, when the well has been idle for several months.

Mercury No. 3 was drilling at 4,260 feet, and No. 7 completed recently, eight-inch casing at 400 feet.

Mirada was drilling ahead at 4,836 feet.

"No change in the situation," said Moose Dome officials last night regarding their test northwest in Turner Valley. This well has been contending with freezing troubles for several weeks in attempts to bring the well into production.

AT BIG MISSOURI

(Miller, Owen & Co., Ltd.)

VANCOUVER, Aug. 19.—C. O. Wickenden, retired architect and Vancouver old-timer, who is now interested in mining properties throughout the province, has just returned from a trip to Stewart, B.C., and vicinity. He reports great activity upon the part of Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company in connection with their operations at the Big Missouri mines, where large crews are busily engaged in mining developments, mill erection and road work.

Heavy shipments of machinery, lumber and mining supplies are going in to the Big Missouri, on freighters and sawmills around Stewart, B.C., and the adjoining town of Hyder, Alaska, are being taxed to the limit of their capacity to take care of the business placed with them by Consolidated, which appears to be pulling for the limit of effort to have the mill operating within the next month or so.

SOUTHERN CANADA HAS INCREASED EARNINGS

Representing the forty-sixth monthly consecutive gain, Southern Canada Power Company Limited reports a further increase in net earnings for July, 1930. Gross earnings of $131,393 for the month show an increase of $7,484 over those for the corresponding month of last year and net earnings of $116,358, an increase of $1,877. Compared with the corresponding month of 1929, net earnings in July, 1930, revealed an increase of over 73 per cent.

For the ten months of the company's fiscal year, ended with July, gross earnings at $1,072,386 show an increase over the same period of 1929 of $131,546 while net at $1,184,288 is $66,191 higher on the same comparation. Canadian Nickel Rapidly Expands Its Operations

Rapid progress is being made with the additions to the plant of the International Nickel Company in the Sudbury district. The new smelter at Copper Cliff is to be in operation two months ahead of the estimated date, according to Robert C. Stanley, president of the company. The roasting furnaces, two reverberatories and the concentrator will be running very shortly. The most advance to be made in the plant will be the coming into operation of the electrolytic copper refinery. This plant is owned by the Ontario Refining Company, which is jointly financed by the International Nickel Company, the American Metal Company of Canada and the Canadian Refining & Smelting Company. It will have an initial capacity of 120,000 short tons of copper annually, and will be the largest refinery in the British Empire.

In connection with the improvements being made at Sudbury, there has been created an acid plant which is using raw materials drawn from Manitoulin. This plant makes nitre cake from sulphide of soda, the soda coming from the Canadian Pacific Pulp and Paper Lake Mining Company in Saskatchewan. This nitre cake is partly consumed by International Nickel, and the sulphate is delivered to the sulphuric acid plant of Canadian Industries at Copper Cliff. The acid company is buying sulphuric fumes from the Inco smelter, primarily for the conversion of the Horseshoe Lake Sudbury nickel sulphate cake, in quantities sufficient to meet the requirements of the new refinery.

Gold Production In Canada Shows 50 Per Cent Gain

Prospects are that Canada this year will advance from second place among the gold producing countries of the world to second place among first place and the United States second, has present progress in the mines of Canada indicates. It appears likely that the 1929 gold production of 1,000,000 ounces, this year be increased by 50 per cent.

TOURIST TRAFFIC ON C.P.R. MUCH IMPROVED

VANCOUVER, Aug. 19.—Swelled by numerous special trains and travel parties, most of them with Canadian Legion overseas, tourist traffic over Canadian Pacific lines during the past two weeks in British Columbia has reached the season's high level and will continue heavy at least till the end of August, according to W. E. Mounter, C.P.R. general passenger agent.

Through travel during the season is generally speaking, considerably better than last season's volume, Mr. Mounter said, "the last two weeks of July and first two weeks of August have compared favorably with last year's record breaking figures."

Approximately 500 persons in eight special parties will pass through Vancouver in the August 15 to August 26, Mr. Mounter stated.

KAMLOOPS IRRIGATED ACREAGE AUGMENTED

Great changes have taken place in the valley of the Thompson River east of Kamloops. Where last year the arid lands were covered with nothing but sage brush this year irrigation broad fields of green stretch away for miles. The soil is very fertile and adjoining cities are nearing maturity. There is abundance of water. Paving the road through this section is progressing rapidly and the black band of highway running smoothly between the fields of green adds an impression of solidarity to the scene.

The value of the crop to be taken from this new area is estimated at $100,000, says The Kamloops Sentinel. It is one of the biggest, if not the biggest, area to be brought under irrigation in one season in this district. One hundred thousand additional dollars circulating in Kamloops this Fall will be all to the good.

The new land brought under cultivation stretches for six miles east of the city limits as far as the foot of Todd's Hill, on either side of the main highway, from the river bank to the base of the clay cliffs, in all 1,000 acres. Of this, 140 acres belong to the Palm Dairy farm, E. A. Dagg, manager. The balance of 800 acres was developed by S. C. Burton for various clients, some of this has been sold and some leased. Two hundred acres are cultivated by white people.

Wheat Pool Head Says Report Is Only Guesswork

REGINA, Aug. 19.—"The announcement of the Wheat Pool's initial payment for the 1930-31 crop will be made by myself after I arrive in Winnipeg" said A. J. McPhail, president of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool and of the Central Selling Agency this morning.

Mr. McPhail said he was not sure whether he would leave for Winnipeg Tuesday night or Wednesday. His departure will depend upon the progress of directors at the meeting of the board of directors of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, now in session.

Mr. McPhail would neither admit nor deny the accuracy of a Winnipeg dispatch as stating that the initial payment would likely be 70 cents. "It's another guess," was his only comment.

VANCOUVER GRAIN ELEVATOR CHARGES APPEALED AGAINST

VANCOUVER, Aug. 19.—Alderman Warner Loat and City Solicitor J. S. Williams will attend the hearing of the Grain Board here Wednesday morning to represent the City Council while grain elevator charges are investigated.

Alderman Loat declared at yesterday's council meeting that elevator charges had increased from half a cent a bushel in 1922 to one cent in 1929. He said that he could see there is no justification for the increase.

"The city should have some data of its own," he said. Alderman Loat asked Alderman Loat before lifting any representations with the Grain Board," said Alderman Angus Jamieson, M.P. I suggest that Alderman Loat get information for us, if he can, and present it to the council before Wednesday morning. Then we can instruct him definitely."

OFFICIAL CROP REPORT

OTTAWA, Aug. 19.—Reports of crop damage due to dry and hot weather in the Prairie Provinces, British Columbia, Maritime Provinces and Western Ontario, have been received by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and are embodied in the crop report issued this afternoon. With respect to the Prairie Provinces, the report states that the harvest of the grain crop is well advanced and threshing is in progress.

As he leaves the trap each outcast is marked with white paint. If these piebald brutes reappear on the beats of the former depredations, sterner measures will be resorted to.

MONTREAL UNEMPLOYED

MONTREAL, Aug. 19.—Montreal at present has between 31,000 and 32,000 unemployed, with another 10,000 to 15,000 expected out two or three days a week, according to reports from labor unions reaching the City Hall.

Summer Dullness

Midsummer usually brings a period of market dullness. This year unfavorable conditions have aggravated the situation. Investors are away and idle cash has accumulate. This very dullness, however, frequently offers opportunities to acquire sound securities at lower prices than is possible when the Fall brings a greater demand for high-grade investments. We invite inquiries by mail from investors who are away or who live out of town.

BLACK OUTLAWS ARE TAKEN "FOR A RIDE"

Park Ranger of Mt. Rainier Adopts Novel and Forceful Methods With "Bad Brains"

LONGMIRE, Wash. Aug. 18.—In Chicago when they "take a man for a ride", he never comes back. That is why the park rangers of Mount Rainier National Park have applied this quaint old custom to the "outlaw" black bears of Paradise Valley.

Four of the big black brutes delight in tearing up tents and cars to get at the food contained therein. They refused to be dissuaded from this practice by any ordinary means. Rio Superintendent O. A. Tomlinson ordered a trap built.

The trap was then baited and a 400-pound black bear—one of the worst offenders—was caught in it. He was speedily unceremoniously over about thirty mountain miles from Longmire, to the center of the new West Wide Highway. There the door was opened.

But brute declined to exit. Hemming, yelling, cursing and fire moved him not at all. Finally a small hole in the front end of the trap was opened. The hole was two feet in diameter, and the black brigand was three feet at the greatest, yet by some process foreign to the laws of physics he passed himself through this orifice. It was at about this time that the park rangers began to learn how for other parts—the black bear lacked poise.

Once out of the hole, the ominous captive also started on a little reprisal—but he went the other way. He leaped over the bank beside the road, and, when last seen, was careening madly from tree to tree, destination unknown, but on his way.

A few days later the trap was again set, and this time the king of the brigands was captured. He was unable to force his ample bulk through the small hole in the front end of the trap, and was forced to back out. At last reports he was still busily engaged in hanging up a new non-stop cross country record.

The trap was set again, and even black bear's curiosity will be taken for a ride. The process will be repeated until the "fearful four," notorious bear bandits of Paradise Valley, are dispersed.

As he leaves the trap each outcast is marked with white paint. If these piebald brutes reappear on the beats of the former depredations, sterner measures will be resorted to.

SASKATCHEWAN TO HOLD CONFERENCE ON RELIEF MEASURES FOR FARMERS

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 19.—For the purpose of eliminating the financial situation of Saskatchewan, the various measures of relief now in force, and any further ideas that might be evolved, a conference of all members of the Government, provincial members and debtors, and various commercial authorities has been called by Premier J. T. M. Anderson to take place Friday morning.

At this meeting the entire financial fabric of the province will be interwoven with the idea of offering the farmers of the dried out areas a much relief as possible.

FIRESTONE PREDICTS RENEWED PROSPERITY

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Harvey S. Firestone, tire manufacturer and friend of Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison, told the Cambridge Industrial Association tonight that the present slump in business soon would be followed by greater prosperity than the United States has known for ten years.

To meet depression he advocated good hard work and readjustments by business leaders to meet the changed conditions such as reduced prices and reduced overhead. He agreed with Henry Ford that soon there would be work for everybody.

GRAIN BOARD TO MEET IN VANCOUVER TODAY

VANCOUVER, Aug. 19—P. J. Rathbone, Port William, secretary of the Grain Board of Canada, has arrived in Vancouver to make arrangements for the annual session, which will be held at the Merchants Exchange on Wednesday, starting at 11 a.m.

The full board will attend the sitting. Members will arrive Wednesday morning.

INDIANA BANK CLOSES

GARY, Ind., Aug. 19.—Another Gary bank was closed today, the fourth within a week, and the third within a day.

The Gary Labor Bank, organized in 1926, announced it would remain closed until further notice. A small run upon the institution by depositors followed. Many uncashed due to the closing of the Mid City State Bank and its branch, the Fifth Avenue Bank, led the directors to take this action, they explained.

Gary Labor Bank has total resources of $670,000.

At a public meeting in Perth recently, at which Premier Collier presided, a campaign was initiated for the secession of Western Australia from the Commonwealth.

CANADA—HER WATER POWER RESOURCES

HYDRO-ELECTRIC power is one of Canada's greatest assets. It has been the magnet which has attracted many of the Dominion's most important industries. It has given Canada supremacy in paper making. It has contributed substantially to the promotion of the mining industry. Its influence in agriculture and other phases of Dominion life is steadily increasing.

Canada has already expanded over a billion dollars in harnessing her mighty rivers. With approximately 6,000,000 h.p. installed a more commencement has been made. Projects in course of development will, within the next three years, add nearly 3,000,000 h.p. When completed to ultimate design capacity further 1,500,000 h.p. will be made available. Canada has within sight installation exceeding 9,000,000 h.p. and a capital investment in excess of two billion dollars.

By that time Canada's power industry will be responsible for the employment, directly or indirectly, of over three million individuals, with their families, for the support of more than twelve million souls.

This will be accomplished with but approximately 30 per cent of Canada's water power resources developed. It suggests also the commercialization of the remaining 70 per cent will affect.

This merely but a glimpse of what just two of Canada's natural resource means to her future.

QUEBEC FESTIVAL IS SET FOR OCTOBER

Habitant Artists and Celebrated Singers Will Take Part in Annual Festival

MONTREAL, Aug. 19—Now an important annual event, the Quebec festival of French Canadian folk songs and handicrafts, at which habitant artists, born and bred on the soil of Quebec Province, and celebrated artist from far and wide vital one another in renewing the spirit of Old France and Old New France, and the age old culture of the Gallic race, will be held this year on October 16, 17 and 18, according to an announcement made by the Canadian Pacific Railway, organizers of the festival.

The centre of activity during the three days of the festival will be the Chateau Frontenac, where, as in former festival years, many hundreds of visitors from all parts of Canada, France, Great Britain and the United States, will gather at a feast of ballad operas, folk-dancing and dances, French and French Canadian music, songs of the soil, of village, farm and river, and the stirring, haunting "chansons" of "voyageurs" and "coureurs du bois," the pioneer woodsmen of this continent. In addition, there will be representations of every handicraft practised in old rural France and in the Province of Quebec.

One of the best ballad operas selected for presentation at the Quebec festival represents a page at some of French-Canadian life, and the other a page from the history of early French settlement in Acadia. The former, "A French Canadian Wedding," was written by Alberic Bourgeois, and vividly depicts the jollity of song and dance accompanying a country ceremony of this nature a hundred years ago.

FRENCH OPERAS

"L'Ordre de Bon Temps," the second opera was written by Louvigny de Montigny. It achieved such remarkable success on its first production that it was translated into English and produced at the Des Muse and Yuletide festivals at Vancouver and Victoria last Winter. "The Order of Good Cheer" is derived from the diary of Marc Lescarbot, and paints a brilliant picture of life in the Acadian settlement of Port Royal under Champlain 300 years ago. A revised French version by the French Canadian poet, Robert Choquette, will be presented at the coming festival by a brilliant cast selected from "La Societe D'Opperette," of Montreal, under the direction of M. H Valdancourt. The music is has been arranged by Dr. Healey Willan, of the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

COUNTRY DANCES

Traditional country dances from five provinces of France, those of Normandy, Brittany, Auvergne, Limousin and Poitou, will be presented by three groups of Quebec children trained by Madame Duquet and group of folk dance enthusiasts from St. Henri, Montreal, under the direction of Charles de Couleit.

The Bytowo Troubadours' famous quartette of French Canadian "Chansonniers," without whom no festival would be complete, will entertain with numerous songs selected from some 6,000 chansons recorded for the National Museum by Dr. Marius Barbeau, E. Z. Massicotte, Adelard Lambert and others.

The death this year of Charles Marchand, leader of the quartette, and one of the organizers of the Quebec festival, was an incalculable loss to French-Canadian culture, but the Troubadours have found a new comrade in Lionel Daunais, a brilliant young baritone who has devoted much of his time to the study and interpretation of folk songs.

HABITANT WOMEN

Habitant women are never at a loss for work and as they work they sing old songs of kings and knights and ladies fair. Lovely melodies that have been preserved through the centuries. The festival will provide an opportunity for visitors to see spinners and weavers at work, with specimens of the exquisite fabrics they make, for the spinning wheels and looms have not yet become "plus ferme" in the habitant homes of Quebec, and the Quebec woven carpets and tapestries are famous all over the world.

Killed in Plane Crash

WINNIPEG, Aug. 18—One day after passing an examination for solo flight, Otto Drael, twenty-eight, was killed early last night when his Gypsy moth plane crashed on the western outskirts of Winnipeg.

Drael, who came to the city only four months ago, was flying alone at the time of the accident.

Parents of the one student of the Winnipeg Flying Club are resident in Denmark, but a brother lives at Chatham, Ont., it was stated tonight.

JAPANESE WOMEN LEAVE CHANGSHA

Evacuation Ordered for Fear of Further Communist Disorders

TROOPS LEAVE HANKOW

By REGINALD SWARTLAND

(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

SHANGHAI, China, Aug. 20. — Japanese civilians have ordered complete evacuation of Japanese women and children from Changsha, owing to a fear of further Red activities. The wives of Japanese Consular officers will be sent to Japan, though it is now generally that the Consulate will be closed for the time.

This step, coupled with the withdrawal of the British troops, who are well as withdrawal of all secondary stocks from Changsha, is a fair indication of the lack of foreign confidence in Nanking's ability to squelch the Communist movement south of the Yangtze River.

The situation in Hankow is sufficiently eased to permit withdrawal of 100 British troops, who were sent there to reinforce the British naval landing forces.

Nanking, which prematurely announced the capture of Lanfeng, a strategic point on the Lunghai front, today admits that the city is still in the hands of General Feng Yu-Hsiang. Activities on the Lunghai front halted because of a heavy rainfall and swamped battlefields.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—The executive committee of the American Bar Association decided at a special meeting today it could not see its way clear to withdraw the mail referendum amongst its members on prohibition

COURTENAY DEBATES RESURVEY OF SITE

Variety of Business Is Transacted by City Council—Preparing Fall Fair

COURTENAY, Aug. 19.—After much careful consideration of the recommendations of the Town Planning Commission to proceed with the preliminary work of replotting and resurveying the townsite, the City Council finally decided to obtain further particulars as to cost before proceeding further in connection with the undertaking. This decision was arrived at on Monday evening when the council was fully represented and was the outcome of a communication from the chairman of the Town Planning Commission, Mr. Theed Pearse.

An application from the Shell Oil Company of British Columbia for the installation of a large water tank on their property at Royston to give fire protection, was refused on the ground that the water department does not undertake to supply fire protection outside of the city limits.

BUSINESS ZONE PROPOSED

Mr. Bright wrote offering to purchase a lot on the Lake Trail for the purpose of building a store. This letter was responsible for a discussion concerning the advisability of zoning the property for the purpose indicated. Some of the aldermen opposed the erection of a store outside the business section, although there is no present by-law to prevent such an undertaking. A committee will report at next meeting.

It was decided that Mayor Mackintyre is to receive the Safety Badge presented by the British Columbia Safety League.

Congratulations were conveyed from the Vancouver Pair Board to the Public School committee from this centre who took part in the Vancouver Exhibition. They are George McKee, Arthur Searle, Cecil Carter, Jackson Ho, Douglas Fairbairn, Joe McKenzie and Kay Moore.

The report of Mr. Bloss, chairman of the electric light committee showed that a fence around the transformer substation has been constructed and the necessary cautionary signs provided.

TO RECONSIDER RATE

Owing to the increase of consumption up to the city's minimum supply of electrical energy from the Canadian Collieries power plant on the Puntledge River, it is now a losing proposition to continue to maintain the minimum flat rate for water heaters. This rate is therefore to be reconsidered with a view to making a slight adjustment, so as to continue to supply current to the water heaters at the present rate, but would be to do so at a loss. No further installation of water heaters is to be made at the former flat rate of $3 per month until further notice.

FIRE HOSE WORKS

The public works board reported that several street upings and repair. It is hoped that the sidewalk between Dunsmuir and Cumberland Street school will be completed before school commence in a little more than two weeks, so that the danger to the children and others will be eliminated.

Alderman Fielder reported some complaints in connection with city garbage and said that conditions at the Indianapolis were not very satisfactory, as nonillammable debris was accumulating. Aldermen Brown and Ball came to his assistance, however, and found places where the refuse could be used to advantage.

The chairman of the water committee reported completion of the protection work on the pipe line along Brown's River. A good job had been done and he hoped the residents in Royston had been properly covered for protection also. The parks board is to meet a committee of the Agriculture and Exhibition Board on the grounds to see what can be done in the way of permanent improvement to the park before the Fall Fair, which commences next 14. The Mayor was requested to accompany the party.

ACCUSATION CREATES SENSATION IN TRIAL

Government's Star Witness Charged With Carrying Gun—Search Fails to Find Weapon

SEATTLE, Aug. 19—Dramatic accusation by defense counsel that Alfred M. Hubbard, star Government witness, was carrying a gun created a sensation in the Lyle-Whitney corruption and bribery trial in Federal court.

Counsel embarrassed Hubbard said he "didn't think" he was armed, and Government Attorney called upon Deputy Marshal to search him at once.

Hubbard came down from the witness stand and stripped off his coat. A search revealed no weapon, and he was permitted to continue testimony.

Defence Attorney A. R. Hilen, who accused Hubbard of having a gun, said the court he had been reliably informed that Hubbard had been coming into the Federal Building armed.

Hubbard was closely cross-examined by counsel for the day, and forced to admit that he had made a deal with Government officials when he was a prosecution witness.

Employer Must Buy Liquor for Assistant Is Verdict of Court

By JOHN BUNTHER

(Overtrain, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

VIENNA, Aug. 20.—Hemorrhoids (a disease of the rectum) have compelled Herr Bekker $50 a month to keep a young man in his employ as assistant Alimasy, to prevent his liver hurting him, up, according to a strange verdict in the Hungarian court.

Alimasy, who has been unemployed on the way to a job, with Alimasy accompanying him in a sleeper, Bekker drove recklessly, the evidence says, and Alimasy was badly hurt when the vehicle smashed into a milestone on the road. Alimasy's injury was a curious one, in which his liver was permanently inflamed. Liquor is necessary to alleviate his suffering.

Petroleum production in Trinidad is increasing this year.

Pile Sufferers

You can only get quick and permanent relief by removing the cause—congestion of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Nothing but an internal medicine can do this. Ointments, cutting and suves fail.

Learn how discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing for 1,200 patients with success in 800 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. Druggists everywhere now sell it. and MacPlanine and Vancouver Drug Stores guarantee money-back if HEM-ROID does not end Piles, injury form.

TONG WAR TRUCE IS PLANNED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Plans for a disarmament conference in Chinatown came to light today when Lon Leong Tong members announced that their leader was unavoidably absent from the city.

There was nothing for officials to do but wait. Peacemakers, however, had a cheerful view of the situation when told by Acting Council J. S. Tow that all delegates had agreed to sign a perpetual truce within a few days.

Meantime the three short streets in the Bowery, in which more than 10,000 Chinese dwell, were quiet.

MARINE and TRANSPORTATION

Empress of Japan Will Capture Blue Ribbon of Ocean With Great Ease

VANCOUVER, Aug. 20.—Out on the broad Pacific, as the big white liner steams at twenty-one knots towards Victoria and Vancouver on her first voyage, passengers on the Canadian Pacific's new 26,000-ton flagship, Empress of Japan, are listening to the stirring sounds of the bagpipes and witnessing the rare sight of a strapping Highlander, in swinging kilt and tartan, parading the boat deck amid a medley of fearsome pibrochs.

The piper is Pipe Major W. C. K. Mackie, pride of the Scottish Company of Volunteers, Hongkong, and wireless reports reaching Canadian Pacific Steamship officials here today declared his piping is one of the outstanding features of the voyage.

Pipe Major Mackie is China's representative in the Scottish Highland Gathering, where pipers and Scottish dancers from Scotland, England and all parts of Canada gather. August 29 to September 2, to settle the question of international supremacy.

VALUABLE PRACTICE

Coming the 9,000 miles from Hongkong, Pipe Major Mackie is making good use of his time to get his some valuable practice with the pipes during the new ship's voyage across.

The Empress of Japan, due here at 5 o'clock Friday morning, is bringing a total of 540 passengers, among them Hon. Manuel Quezon, President of the Philippine Senate, and a party of fifteen other Government representatives from Manila, all en route to Washington to discuss with United States officials the question of the Philippines status.

It took Samuel Hanson, R.N.R., C.B.E., brings the 26,000-ton liner into William Head Quarantine Station, out of Victoria harbour, at 11 o'clock Friday morning, his ship will eclipse the transpacific speed record of 8 days 10 hrs. 53 mins., held by another Canadian Pacific liner, the Empress of Canada, for the 4,179-knot voyage from Yokohama to Race Rocks.

RAILWAY OFFICIALS PAY VICTORIA VISIT

Among prominent transportation people in Victoria yesterday were Paul B. Wilson, travelling passenger agent of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway at Los Angeles, who has been touring Vancouver Island for several days in company with Mrs. Wilson.

E. W. Cilland, travelling freight agent for the Union Pacific, with headquarters at Los Angeles, arrived in Victoria Monday to await the arrival of Mr. Dorothy Alexander, on which he sailed for Alaska, accompanied by Mrs. Cilland.

Also in the city today is C. M. Andrews, who has been passenger agent of the Southern Pacific system, with headquarters at Seattle, who will remain for several days renewing old acquaintances. Mr. Andrews is well acquainted here and was recently appointed to his new duties after ten years' service in the South.

WINTERTIME TOURS IN ORIENT POPULAR

American Mail Line Will Inaugurate Season's Sailings in January Next

Wintertime travel to the Orient is fast gaining popularity throughout the country, particularly among those who are satiated with Europe and are looking for new fields to conquer. Tokio, Shanghai and Manila, to say nothing of Peiping, are vying with one another as to which shall be the future Mecca of those who travel for travel's sake, novelty, annuity, with steamer rates and cabin fares at the lowest world has to offer.

According to W. M. Allan, of the American Mail Line in Victoria, the President liners sailing out of this port in the early part of the Winter, may be used to take the traveler through to Manila, even although the ports of Yokohama, Kobe, Shanghai and Hongkong are touched on the outbound voyage. The Wintertime voyageur disembarks in the Philippines, "does" the islands and then, by easy stages, moves northward through the Orient, traveling in the forefront of the new Summer, which has been born along the Equator and is expanding northward as the months roll on. From Hongkong, in this fashion, Canton may be explored, and even perhaps those under spiritualistic conditions.

"Travelling along with the morning season, Shanghai comes next upon the visiting list, then Peiping, from Mukden in Manchuria, Hera, Spring and the hottest part compacy, the latter to dip southward again into Summer and Seoul, the capital of Korea, and from then westward into Japan and this cherry blossom, stuff cakiyaki, the little butterfly geisha and all the innumerable delights for which this latter land is famous.

Mr. Allan is now announcing his company's annual Oriental Winter cruise as sailing from Victoria on January 24 on the President Grant. The three months of ocean and land travel in the Far East will cover an itinerary much as outlined above and will give the members of the party in Mr. Allan's own words, "a chance to see and hear and touch and sense the Orient under ideal weather conditions."

NIAGARA WILL SAIL FOR SOUTH TONIGHT

Due at 5 o'clock this afternoon from Vancouver on her way south to Honolulu, Suva, Auckland and Sydney, R.M.S. Niagara will sail from Ribbet Pier two hours later with a large list of passengers aboard. Among the passengers joining the ship at Vancouver is Lord Beauchamp, leader of the Liberal party in the House of Lords, and Chancellor of London University. Lord Beauchamp is a former Governor of New South Wales, and has large interests in Australia.

Explorers' Silence Not Worrying Airways Company

EDMONTON, Aug. 18—Although W. E. Gilbert, Western Canada Airways flyer, who, with Major L. T. Burwash, the noted explorer, is flying in the North Mackenzie, has not heard from, officials of the airways company here are not alarmed in the slightest degree.

It is now five days since the radio messages supposed to be sent out by Gilbert at noon each day have been heard, but it is felt that conditions in the Far North have been unfavorable for radio transmission.

Flyers reaching Edmonton from the North have reported that storms have been sweeping the Arctic Coast area for some days past, and this, added to the fact that conditions in the vicinity of the Magnetic Pole are known to interfere with radio, is responsible for the belief that the messages may have been sent out but not heard.

Gilbert is an experienced Northern flyer. He is believed to be in the vicinity of Dease Point, east of the Coppermine River, on the Arctic Coast.

Ferry Boats Run Dead Heat From Wharf to Wharf

WHILE no money changed hands and there was nothing arranged beforehand, it nevertheless happened that the ferry boats Patricia and the St. Princess David cleared the Victoria docks for Vancouver yesterday morning at the same time, and while there is nothing to indicate that a trial of speed took place, both boats arrived in Burrard Inlet at the same time.

SPEED RECORDS NOT OBJECTIVE OF NEW VESSEL

Empress of Japan Not Being Driven on Maiden Voyage

CANADA PREDOMINANT ON GREATEST OCEAN

WINNIPEG, Aug. 19.—"The recent statement in press dispatches from Hongkong where she was 26,000-ton Empress of Japan sailed on her maiden voyage for ports in Victoria and Vancouver, that she was setting out to break the record now held by the Empress of Canada is hardly correct," H. B. Beatement, steamship general passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific at Montreal, said on his arrival by the Transcanada Tuesday morning.

"It is not our policy to attempt either to create or break records," he said, although with, on both oceans, the largest, fastest and finest ships we are frequently do that thing. With regard to the maiden voyage of the new Empress, which is expected to terminate at Vancouver, August 22, there is no doubt at all that the ship is physically capable of lowering every record on the Pacific should her captain decide to let her go all out. But it must be remembered that a ship is like a human, fallible—she must be worked in."

Mr. Beaumont leaves for the Coast Wednesday, with W. C. Casteinsky general passenger agent, C.P.R., Winnipeg, to attend a number of functions to be held in Vancouver "about the new liner next week.

He stated that great interest is being shown in the Orient by Canadian business and produces a considerable increase in business between the two coasts of the Pacific. "Next October a large party of business men leaves for a tour of the Orient under the auspices of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and you recently had a visit from a party of Japanese business men here. Both of these facts are, I think, significant of what the future holds."

Canadian Pacific faith in the future of business between Canada and the Orient, and the exchange of products between the two lands and Canada was indicated, Mr. Beaumont said, by the attention that had been paid to the Pacific. "We are now operating three of the Empresses of Canada and have very recently taken over the Empress of Japan to the service. This, coupled with the same service to Hawaii, puts Canada in the same transportation position in the Pacific that she holds on the Atlantic."

PAINTERS OVERCOME ON BRITISH VESSEL

Two Men Dead as Result of Gas Inhaled While at Work in Tanks

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Aug. 19.—Two men died and thirteen others were overcome by gas yesterday while painting in the bottom of the British tanker Tuscaloosa at the Bethlehem shipyards. The dead were Jack Montoya, twenty-four, and Guadalupe Escalante, twenty-nine, both of this city. The other victims were rescued by the fire department and removed to their homes.

Montoya, foreman for the Smith Painting Company, had led the workers through a small manhole into a long tank in the bottom of the ship and started spraying with paint. Shortly thereafter, gasping each operations, company officials said, Escalante, who was working on the task, and as the paint vaporized it got into the lungs of the workers.

AVOID EYE TROUBLE

The process of seeing requires an almost unbelievable amount of energy. It is estimated that about one-fifth of our nervous energy is spent in this manner. You can readily understand that where there is a definite defect in the vision, this strain may be greatly increased.

The introduction of scientifically-made glasses has added many years to the life of the average person. Man can now continue to enjoy life through many additional years where formerly he had to sit in his armchair and wait for the end.

The conversation from acetrain is such an important factor in causing disease that I discuss this with every patient who comes to me in my private practice. No diagnosis of disease can be accurate if the physician does not inquire into the amount of energy that a patient wastes through eye fatigue.

The eye is a marvelous organ and is necessarily very sensitive to convey the delicate shadow impressions from the outside world to the optic nerve so that these impulses may be impressed upon the centre of vision in the brain.

One who possesses perfect eyesight is indeed fortunate, because such an individual will usually live longer, have better health, and learn more through observation that one with imperfect sight. Where there is a definite eye defect, it is a possible cause of headaches, wasted vitality and even functional or organic diseases. These defects are also possible through a straining of the eyes from faulty light and bad reading habits, even when there is no actual defect in the eye itself.

The optometrists of today are highly trained specialists who have become educated through an intensive training, and they are better able to examine the eyes and discover the errors of vision than is the average physician.

Some of the defects of vision can may be corrected through using the right kind of glasses, but the majority of cases can undoubtedly be benefited through developing good habits of reading and the additional help of electrical treatments, diet and eye exercises.

I have prepared a series of eye exercises for strengthening the muscles and improving the circulation of the eye. If anyone desires this article and will send a large, self-addressed stamped envelope, it will be mailed without charge.

If you want to preserve your eyesight you should avoid the glare of direct light into the eyes, or a direct reflection from shiny paper. The best light comes over the left shoulder onto the paper.

Do not try to read in a flickering light nor in direct sunlight. The best artificial light is from indirect sunlight or from powerful frosted globes. Learn to stop your reading as soon as your eyes feel tired. It is not good to continue reading a book all night long simply because one becomes interested in the story. Avoid doing work that requires close application, such as fine needlework, or reading very small type. Reading on trains while objects are passing present a strain to the eyes as it is sitting too close to a moving picture screen.

Do not wear improperly fitted glasses. It is poor economy to pay fifteen to twenty-five cents for your glasses, when they may ruin your eyesight. There are often injurious effects from glasses even though they seem to fit. Only a scientific examination can determine the correct glasses.

Correspondents wishing to communicate with Dr. McCoy should address letters: Dr. Frank McCoy, c/o. McCoy Publications, Inc., 609 South Ardmore Avenue, Los Angeles, Cal. A self-addressed, stamped envelope should be enclosed for the reply.

OVERCOME BY CRAMPS YOUNG BOY DROWNED

VANCOUVER, Aug. 18 — Apparently overcome by cramps while swimming in Burrard Inlet near the Hastings Avenue wharf, Gordon Powell, twelve, son of Mrs. M. Powell, Hastings Avenue, was drowned on Monday night shortly after 11 o'clock. The only witness of the tragedy was Roy Smith, nine, Powell's companion. He reported that Gordon was diving from a raft near the wharf when he disappeared.

The body was not recovered until 2 o'clock this morning.

J. W. Stokes, chairman of the Grimsby, England, football club, recently dived, fully clothed, from his motorboat into the Thames and saved a boy from drowning.

MUSKEGS MAY PROVE SOURCE OF REVENUE

Minneapolis Manufacturer of Insulating Material Contemplates Using Sphagnum Moss

Winnipeg reports that considerable is now being given to the establishment in Manitoba of a new industry to utilize the sphagnum mosses available in huge quantity in the muskegs or bogs conditions to the Hudson Bay Railway. It appears that a Minneapolis manufacturer of insulating materials for building construction, with a branch factory in Canada, has recently become greatly interested in these mosses and is contemplating the establishment of a factory which would use the raw material excavated from the bogs.

UNLIMITED QUANTITY

According to Fred V. Seibert, superintendent for Manitoba and Saskatchewan of the Natural Resources Department, Canadian National Railways, investigations which are still being carried on, so far indicate an almost unlimited quantity of this material of superior quality to the mosses secured in bogs further south. It is pointed out that the trend in Canada today in building construction is definitely toward thicker insulation against heat and cold and that there are enormous possibilities ahead of suitable insulating materials.

USED IN EUROPE

Already in Europe great industrial use of peat is made in the manufacture of boards for the insulation of dwellings, industrial plants, cold storage warehouses and refrigerators. Several ships of the Hamburg-American Line, including the Leviathan, are insulated with peat board, and this type of board is extensively used in Russia for insulation of both dwellings and large buildings.

Considerable interest is now being evinced in Canada in the possibilities of utilizing suitable domestic bogs for the production of peat insulators and if the present project materializes it will mean an absolutely new industry for the Dominion and one which will transform the muskegs of Northern Manitoba, long held of no commercial value, into a source of additional wealth for the province.

FATHER VISITS NORTHCOTT

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Aug. 18 — Gordon Stewart Northcott, condemned murderer, was visited by his father today for the first time since he was imprisoned a year and a half ago for the Riverside Farm murders. The elder Northcott also visited his wife, Mrs. Sarah Louise Northcott, who was imprisoned for complicity with her son.

Grape growers of Spain met recently and prepared to fight French legislation prohibiting the mixing of wine, which greatly diminishes French imports of Spanish wine.

"FULL TIDE"

By HERBERT GALWAY

(Author of "Mark Burford's Heir," "Miss Nobody," "The Squire of Redesby," Etc.)

Both men by the light of their pocket lamps searched every corner of the huge barn. They even flashed the electric rays upon the rafters high up in the cobwebby roof. The emptiness still mocked them.

"I don't know what game you might be up to, young man," grumbled the constable at length, "Dragging officers o' the law out o' their beds on wild-goose chases like this here."

"This is no wild-goose chase," protested Medders. "When I set out to find you, the young lady was lying all of a heap in that corner and dead to the wide world."

"Dead?"

"Well, dead as far as knowin' anything was concerned, she was unconscious, but didn't seem to be hurt."

"No, I should say not," the constable smiled grimly. "I should say not! She was well enough to 'ip it, to my way o' thinkin'."

Dick Medders was nonplussed. "Yes, it looks like it, don't it?"

"And there's no clue, nothing for nobody to work on," continued the officer. "There ain't even a footmark."

"Half a minute," interrupted Medders, suddenly remembering and thrusting his hand into his side pocket. "What would you call this?"

The constable took the false beard and turned it over and over intuitively. "Where did you get it?"

"A-I the villain what was hooting the kidnappin' job. That's a clue, ain't it?"

"Yes," went on the officer slowly. "How did you get it?"

"Punched him on the jaw as he came running out, and it fell off."

"What was he running away for?"

"Because I shouted and he thought there was a crowd of us going to do 'im in."

"Um! Could you describe any of them?"

"Well, this bloke was a medium fat chap with an officer's cap and a short beard and—here, but 'old 'ard—he ain't got no beard now, I've got 'im!"

"Yes, it's not much help. Did you see anybody else you'd know again?"

"No—yes! Good Yor'! Yes! I'd forgotten all about him. I saw Foxy Fred!"

"Who's Foxy Fred?"

"Don't you know Fred Govan—Foxy? I thought all the police knew a crook like him! Why he was—"

"What! Govan? Govan down in these parts?"

"Yes, why not? He's done his time, hasn't he?"

"That's correct, but I don't like to know he's at large again. I thought he'd gone abroad."

"Perhaps he will now."

"What do you mean—now?"

"Well, I'm sure Foxy's getting paid for being in this. I mean there's somebody pointing the dibs, so that he and other crooks can do the dirty work—see?"

"I don't know what we can do unless this mysterious young lady makes a charge against someone," went on the policeman. "And you didn't recognize anyone but Foxy Fred? And then you might have been mistaken."

"Yes," said Dick Medders slowly. "P'haps I was."

"I'll keep this beard," said the officer. "It may prove a valuable clue. Where will you be if you should be wanted?"

"Well that's a difficult matter. I'm a sort o' bird o' passage. I am here today and gone tomorrow, but I think I'll go back to Ashbridge for a time. Yes, a note addressed to me, Mister Richard Medders, Bramley's, will find me all right."

"Bramley's?" was the reply. "Bramley's what?"

"Oh! Just Bramley's. You see its a large house where travelers like me can stop as long as they like or as long as they can pay for lodging."

The dawn was coming up over the distant hills when the constable returned to continue his interrupted sleep.

Dick Medders walked round the barn once more, with some vague idea of finding footprints indicating the way the girl had vanished. He halted when he reached the door again and looked at the ground, but it was so rubbed and scraped with the feet that had recently shuffled over it that he found it quite impossible to pick out one set of tracks from another.

He began to wonder if the gang had returned and succeeded in their design to kidnap her. He thought with aching doubts, and went out into the road with the aimless walk of a man uncertain of his direction.

Over on the other side was a high bank fashing a deep, dry ditch, beyond which lay a waste of flat, bare land, stretching away to the distant river.

As he slumbered on to the top of the ridge-like bank Dick Medders was surprised to hear a loud, shrill laugh come from a black circular tent a few feet below him.

"What's the joke?" asked Medders, annoyed to think that anyone should consider him a subject for laughter.

"Up nice and early!" laughed the voice, and the next moment an old gipsy woman emerged, her black eyes shining like beads fixed on yellow parchment. "How are it? I didn't think so!" she hobbled nearer, to the astonishment of the silent tramp.

"Let a young woman appear and there'll be a man not far behind—here! here I've always found it, it always will be."

"What's the mean—a young woman gipsy?" asked Medders.

"Handy! Her has that woke me up to ask the way to London."

Dick nearly fell out of the ridge in his excitement. "When was this?"

"Handy! Her has. Didn't I tell you a man wouldn't be far behind? Dearie me! I've never been wrong yet!"

"Well, what about it? How far is it to London?"

"Twenty miles!"

"And did this young lady start to walk it?"

"Her was going to, but a motor car came along and I asked the driver to take the lass to London."

"Was it dark?"

"Black as the color of that tent! except when the moon came out."

Again the horrible misgivings about the car. "How many people in the motor?" he asked.

"Only one—a young lady—besides the chauffeur, and she happened to have missed the train, or she wouldn't have come along."

"Did she say who she was or what she was doing there?"

"No, she was crying and if the car hadn't come along I'd have taken the poor lass in till she could have got away. I don't know what you want with her, but if it's you she was frightened of I hope you don't find her and that the curse of—"

"Go easy, Mother, go easy!" cried Medders as the gipsy's voice was becoming more shrill and passionate. "I don't want to harm the girl. I want to help her. In fact I'd pone for help when she ran away."

"Well then, if she ran away from you even when you'd offered to help her, I say she had very good reason, and I don't like the looks o' you meself."

Dick Medders laughed. "I know I ain't a beauty, but she didn't know I was helping her. She was doped. Kidnapped. Left in that old barn by the dirty dogs that I frightened away! I'd been to see the police to put the law on 'em and—"

The old woman burst into a laugh once more. "Did you go to the cottage over yonder to the constable?"

"Yes, why not?"

"He won't get you very far. We can pinch a thing under his nose and he'd never see it."

"Well he might help in this. And anyway there was nobody else near. I wish I'd known you were camping so near."

It was with a very heavy heart that Dick Medders started his twenty-mile walk to London. He had one fine idea—to make his way to Ashbridge and in good time find the reason for Foxy Fred's association with Jasper Sinalco, and now far the latter was connected with the abduction of Diana Arden.

He had covered about a mile when heavy motor punctchinons overtook him at a good speed. He let it go, then dashed after it like a schoolboy, and was soon safely, if not quite comfortably seated on a narrow projection at the back, holding on like a limpet to a chain that hung conveniently near.

CHAPTER XIII

When Diana Arden awoke in the darkness of the ancient barn she thought at first that she was dreaming a nightmare. But the straw rustled as she turned and she felt cold and heavy. She opened her eyes, and came to a break in the lofty roof saw the moonlight coming fitfully through. Her gaze wandered to the half-opened door and watched wonderingly the light as it lengthened and weakened following the passing of the clouds across the face of the moon.

She stood up, her limbs cramped, her head aching and dizzy. She walked carefully and slowly to the door, and came to a halt, previously the diffused light, which emphasized shadows and lent mystery and magic to the most common objects.

She was dazed. She glanced fearfully back into the gloom she had just left, and met an paralyzed stare to the main road.

She pounced to find that her purse and its contents were quite intact, and tried to piece together the events of that terrible night.

She was dazed. She glanced fearfully back into the gloom she had just left, and met an paralyzed stare to the main road.

She pounced to find that her purse and its contents were quite intact, and tried to piece together the events of that terrible night.

"The girl lady wanders about at night," the high-pitched voice came from a strange black tent just below where she was standing.

Diana met the gipsy woman as she emerged from the tent and told her politely and tactfully of her misfortune.

"And I must get home—to London first," she concluded.

"There be no trains that time o' night, even if there was a station here."

"Is there no other way?" pleaded the girl. "I will pay for it."

The gipsy regarded her sympathetically. "There'll be nothing along till morning, unless—" She held her ear to the ground, then stood up and listened intently.

"Yes! I thought I heard. "I thought my old ears had not lost their cunning! There isn't a rustle I don't hear, and know what the trees say to each other when they whisper at night. There's a motor car coming along the road, and it's going towards the City."

"How far is it to London?"

"Twenty miles as straight as an arrow."

Diana felt that moment as though twenty thousand miles would not have rendered more hopeless her chance of escaping to the sheltering arms of the City, but she said nothing, and the old gipsy stood silent, weird figure in the fitful night, gazing down the long road, waiting for the car which she knew with such uncanny certainty would shortly appear.

Some minutes later a white radiance silhouetted a shoulder of the hill and picked out every irregularity of the ridge. Diana watched intently the light as it traveled in and out of the apparently coal-board hills to emerge finally in the shape of two blinding headlights, which cut the night like silver blades ripping a black curtain, and showed every tuft, every gaze, every stone, and every little bump on the long, smooth road.

When the car was about two hundred yards away, the old gipsy ran into the rays of light and frantically waved her arms.

There was the scream of hurriedly applied brakes and a voice from behind the brilliant rays called out a question.

"This young lady," replied the gipsy. "It's a matter of life or death. She must get to London and—"

"Oh! If you would be so kind!" interrupted Diana, grateful for the old woman's exaggeration.

A pleasant voice expressed willingness and invited the girl into the car.

"We're going to catch a train at London," explained the chauffeur as he slightled to open the door.

"Will that suit you?" asked the young occupant of the car, who was now sitting as she leaned over and smiled a welcome.

"Perfectly," cried Diana gratefully. "I go home to Ashbridge from Euston."

"Well, you'll tell me more on the way home," smiled the lady. "I'm afraid we shall have to speed. There are no trains near here at this hour."

Not caring to inflict the recital of her troubles on her companions, and fearing lest her story of kidnapping might be disbelieved because of its improbability, Diana explained her presence in the barn humbly in another way.

Her hostess was politely interested, but was really too concerned about the finishing touch to show much curiosity.

It seemed to Diana that the journey was no sooner started than ended, and the car shooted into the great gates of the terminus with only two minutes to spare.

Euston Station in the small hours of the morning is not a cheerful place for a lonely girl to spend an hour or two, but Diana went into the waiting-room and made the best of her enforced leisure by sitting upright on an uncomfortable seat, and closed her tired eyes.

It was breakfast time when she arrived at the cottage at Ashbridge, and it seemed as though months had passed since she left it.

Almost before her latch-key had turned in the lock the door was opened wide and her trusted maid welcomed her with open arms.

"I can't say how glad I am to see you," cried Ruth. "I wondered if you were dead, and was going to the Sleeves to see if by any chance you were over there."

"It's a wonder I'm not dead—or worse," said Diana, with difficulty repressing a sob. "There's some terrible mystery to be cleared up and I—both of us—will return to Mrs. Sleeves, my dear old guardian, tonight."

The maid smiled her approval. "I'm so glad. I'm beginning to hate this place now. There's been nothing but trouble since Mr. Ardon left!"

(To Be Continued)

NH: "My daughter had the valedictory when she graduated from High School."

Wil: "Isn't that too bad, did she have a doctor?"

"Bramley's what?"

"Oh! Just Bramley's. You see its a large house where travelers like me can stop as long as they like or as long as they can pay for lodging."

The dawn was coming up over the distant hills when the constable returned to continue his interrupted sleep.

Dick Medders walked round the barn once more, with some vague idea of finding footprints indicating the way the girl had vanished. He halted when he reached the door again and looked at the ground, but it was so rubbed and scraped with the feet that had recently shuffled over it that he found it quite impossible to pick out one set of tracks from another.

He began to wonder if the gang had returned and succeeded in their design to kidnap her. He thought with aching doubts, and went out into the road with the aimless walk of a man uncertain of his direction.

Peter Gets Things Straight at Last

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Only knowledge that's exact
Is acceptable in fact.
—Old Mother Nature.

"How can a White Heron be a Little Blue Heron?" demanded Peter indignantly.

"He can, because he is in this case," replied Egret the Great White Heron. "These young cousins of mine that you are looking at are white, aren't they?"

Peter agreed that they were white, very white indeed. "That was just the trouble. If they were white they couldn't be blue. He was willing to admit that they were little Herons—at least, they were smaller than Egret. If Egret had called them little White Herons, it would have been all right; but to call them Little Blue Herons, when they really were white, was pure nonsense. At least, that is what Peter thought.

Meanwhile, Jerry Muskrat had been thinking the matter over. "Do you remember, Peter," said he, "that Winsome Bluebird once had a white son. He was white, but he was a bluebird just the same. Perhaps it is that way in this case."

Egret shook his head. "It isn't just that way," said he. "That white Bluebird was probably white all his life. Probably his brothers and sisters were not white at all."

"That's true," spoke up Peter. "He was the only white member of the family."

"I thought as much," declared Egret. "Now, these young Herons are not always going to have white coats; in fact, if you look sharply, you can see that they are beginning to change already. By next year they will not be white at all. Now, both the father and mother of these youngsters there were slate blue, and by the time they are three years old that will be the color of the coats of these youngsters. That is why this kind of Heron is called the Little Blue Heron. Of course, the children of Little Blue Herons must be Little Blue Herons too, no matter what the color of their coats.

Peter scratched a long ear with a long bindfoot. Then he turned his head and scratched the other long ear with the other long bindfoot. "I begin to see," said he.

"I'm glad you do," said Egret.

"Little Blue Heron is just a name the same as Peter Rabbit," said Peter.

"That's it," said Egret. "If you should see these young Herons with their parents, you would never guess from their looks that they were closely related.

"Did the feather hunters kill the Little Blue Heron," asked Jerry Muskrat.

"Yes," replied Egret. "It got so that no White Heron had much of a chance to live. As I told you before, there was a time when many members of my family used to come up here to the North, particularly in Summer. Now that we've been so pleasantly received up here, I hope that we may come again, and that others of the family may come up here. There seems to be excellent feeding here. Do these two-legged creatures with terrible guns ever come here?"

"No," said Peter. "Farmer Brown's Boy will not allow them here."

"And who," asked Egret, "is Farmer Brown's Boy?"

"The friend of all the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows, the Laughing Brook and the Smiling Pool," replied Peter. "Here he comes now."

Sure enough, Farmer Brown's Boy was headed across the Green Meadows straight for the Smiling Pool. Egret spread his great wings and headed for the Big River. The others did the same.

DEAN INGE FAVORS DOOMED CRIMINALS EXECUTING SELVES

OXFORD, England, Aug. 18.—Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, often called the "Gloomy Dean," today in his presidential address to the Modern Churchmen's conference, at Oxford, said the present generation, especially since the war, had revolted against the rule of Mrs. Grundy.

He declared Victorian conventions were kept up only with the help of a "vast amount of hypocrisy."

Dean Inge said he believed every criminal doomed to death ought to be allowed to carry out the sentence upon himself in his own way. He added he would not censure a man who, knowing he was dying slowly by an agonizing disease, wished to shorten his suffering.
